MAN FOUND IN BOX CAR WITH HEAD CRUSHED

Stranger in Kirkwood Probably Fatally Beaten and Robbed of $200.

FIVE MEN ARRESTED

IS EXPECTED TO DIE

Victim of Assault Had "Commission" From Cincinnati Detective Agency.

A man believed to be R. J. Harkema of the Granna Detective Bureau of Cincinnati was robbed and perhaps fatally beaten in a box car a short distance east of the Kirkwood station on the Missouri Pacific early Tuesday. He was found by Hugh McDermott, who lives just south of the tracks.

The man is about 40 years old, with dark hair. He wore dark clothes, new and of good quality. His skull was fractured, the bones of his face below the left eye were broken, and his left eye was cut as if with a knife. His pockets were turned inside out.

Confirmation of the report that Harna had displayed $200 in bills to a negro at the Kirkwood Electric Light plant, where he was seen about 4 p. m. Monday, could not be obtained. Nor could anyone be found who knew of Harkema's having such a sum.

It was learned that he had been employed since May 19 by Henry Fluetsh of 7517 Comfort avenue, as a teamster. Fluetsh said he paid Harkema's wages, [illegible], Monday morning and that he had not seen his employe since noon that day.

Man Seen to Leave Car.

McDermott's attention was attracted to the car when he saw a man leave it stealthily about 6 a. m. McDermott went over to the car and found a pair of shoes on the track near the wheels. He looked into the car and saw the unconscious man on the floor. Near Harkema was a heavy brake bar, with which it is believed, his forehead was crushed.

Sheriff Grueninger, Marshal Kinyon of Kirkwood and about forty citizens went in search of the man McDermott had seen leaving the car. They arrested Amiglio Marino, who was identified by McDermott as the man he had seen creeping out of the car.

Marino was taken to Clayton and locked up. He denies any knowledge of the robbery and protests that he was not near the box car in which Harkema was attacked.

Four other suspects were arrested. They were: Lon Hamm, who gave his address as 5218 Chouteau avenue; Alfred Ensminger, who said he was from York, Pa.; Walter Turton, who said he was from Kansas City, and Robert Smith, who said he was from Charlottesville, Va.

No Evidence Against Prisoners.

Hamm, Ensminger and Smith were found in a box car near where Hargema was attacked. There was no other reason for suspecting them. Turton was taken into custody later, when he was detected conversing with the prisoners through a jail window. All four deny they know anything of the robbery.

Sheriff Grueninger was unable to find anyone who knew what Harkema's business in Kirkwood had been.

"I don't think that the United States Congress should stoop to street slang in passing a tariff bill," said the man who reads Browning.

"I didn't know that slang figured in the tariff bill," said the man who scanned the sporting page.

"Why, the public is called 'a lemon;' didn't you see in the papers what the increased lemon tax would cost the consumer?"

"O, that wasn't slang, they meant real lemons. They raised the duty on them."

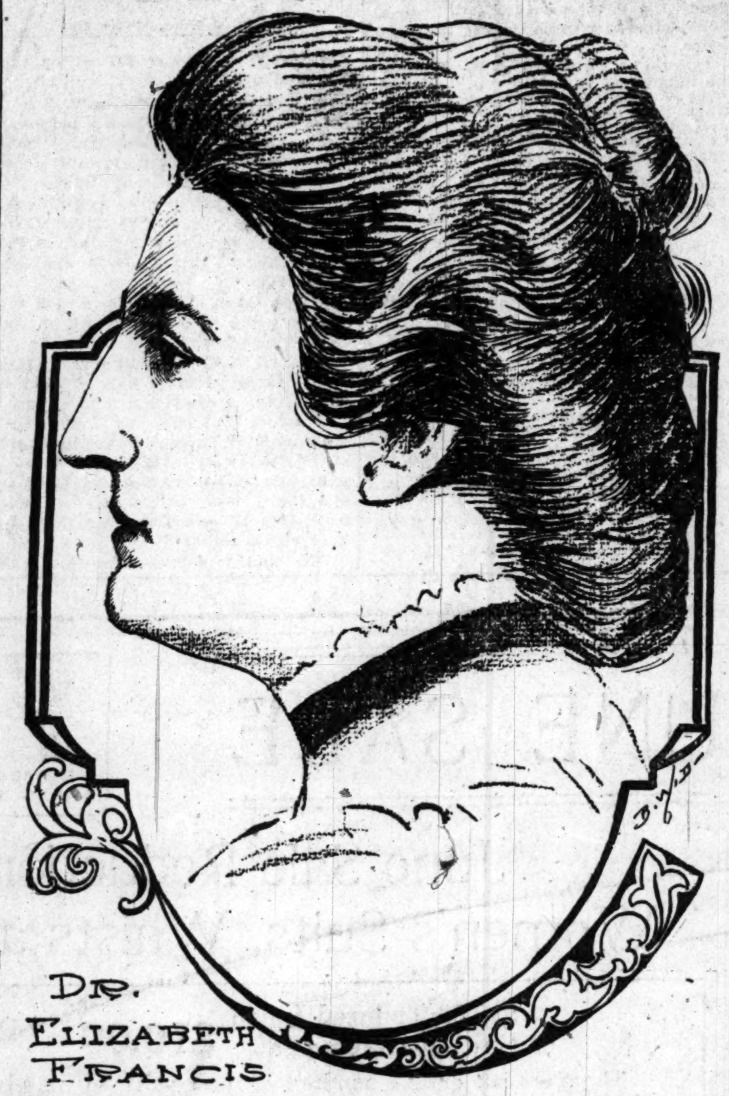
WOMAN DOCTOR WHO ENDED LIFE AFTER A QUARREL OVER BERRIES



GRAVE CAVES IN AT FUNERAL OF WOMAN "HAUNT"

Uncanny Incidents Connected With the Burial of Mrs. Emma Stelzer.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

STERLING, Ill., June 1.—Friends and neighbors throughout Whiteside County are discussing in awestruck whispers today the strange events associated with the burial this morning of Mrs. Emma Stelzer, who vowed in a death message that unless her funeral was conducted from the house of the man she loved she would send her spirit to haunt and to vex him for the remainder of his life.

Mrs. Stelzer killed herself on Saturday by taking strychnine. She left a note saying that she loved Jacob Warner, a farmer, and that she wished her funeral to take place from his home. She also commanded Warner to see that her divorced husband did not witness the burial.

Uncanny Incidents at Funeral.

Warner scoffed at the strange threats. He said he never loved Mrs. Stelzer and that he would have nothing to do with her funeral. News of the woman's threat and the man's defiance spread over the countryside, and there was intense interest in the plans for the funeral.

Mrs. Stelzer's body was taken from the morgue, where it had lain since Warner refused to admit it to his home, and was carried out to the cemetery at the head of a long cortege of carriages containing friends, neighbors and many who were drawn by curiosity.

The pastor had scarcely begun to read the burial service when the earth around the open grave caved in.

Impressed by Accidents.

There was a suppressed movement of alarm among the crowd about the grave. The minister sent for workmen, who repaired the damage, and the burial service was resumed.

Again, as the coffin was being lowered, the ground gave way and clattered noisily on the top of the casket.

There was none in the funeral assemblage that believed the woman's threat had been anything more than the distracted message of a troubled woman, but all those present were visibly impressed by the two accidents.

Warner, who laughed at the threat that her spirit would return to haunt him all his life, keeps up his air of bravado. But he has noticeably grown pale and is failing in health and friends who saw him today said he was a sick man. They attribute it to his brooding over Mrs. Stelzer's vow.

FIRE IS SWEEPING DUPONT, PA.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 1.—Fire is sweeping the town of Dupont. There is no fire fighting apparatus there. Engines and hose wagons are being hastened to the scene from Pittston and Avoca.

Crowds of foreigners raided stores and a hotel, carrying off merchandise and liquors, before a detail of State police reached the place.

Cardinal-Pittsburg Game Off.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 1.—Today's baseball game between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Pittsburg team was called off on account of rain.

ASKS GUEST OF MISSING $60 AND IS THREATENED

Daisy Vaucher Warned of "Gambling" When Seeking Bag, Ring and Money.

When Miss Daisy Vaucher asked one of her guests at a euchre to help her find a silver mesh bag, containing $60 and an amethyst ring, which had disappeared during the euchre, the guest, according to Miss Vaucher, replied:

"I don't know anything about your old bag, and if you bother me any more about it, I'll have you and all your other guests arrested for gambling."

Miss Vaucher, who is a stenographer for the Board of Election Commissioners, said Tuesday that she would see Four Courts officials regarding possible prosecution.

"I entertained guests yesterday afternoon and last night at my home, 4731 McMillan avenue," she said. "Prizes were given in the euchre games.

"In the evening, after some of the guests had gone, I went upstairs to the room where they had laid their wraps, and found that the bag had disappeared. It had been in a bureau drawer.

"I went down and told my guests. They all said they would willingly be searched, and they insisted on my searching them. Then one of them told me she had seen a woman put something in her stocking just before leaving.

"I went with my brother to that woman's house and asked her about the lost bag. She threatened to have me arrested for gambling, and said she had never seen the bag.

"I asked her what she had put in her stocking, and she said it was a prize she had won. As a matter of fact, she did not win any prize."

The lost ring was one Miss Vaucher has worn to replace the one which, last fall, she accused Sim Harris, a politician, of taking from her desk at the City Hall. Harris since has been committed to an asylum.

Beside the cash and the ring, the bag contained a claim check for $5.75 on a department store.

WOMAN, 48, IN LOVE WITH MAN 26, KILLS SELF

Former Physician Drinks Acid After Quarrel Starting Over Strawberries.

MARRIED THREE TIMES

Young Companion Says Two Men Were Divorced by Mrs. Elizabeth Francis.

Mrs. Elizabeth Francis, formerly a practicing physician in Cincinnati, killed herself with carbolic acid Monday afternoon in her room at 4335 Prairie avenue, after a quarrel with Albert Greensfield, who also lived there.

Greensfield, who is held at police headquarters for the Coroner, says Mrs. Francis was insanely jealous. He said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday:

"Mrs. Francis was 48 years old, though she gave out her age as 38. I am 26. Last Sunday I was playing with a little girl out there, only 11 years old, and Mrs. Francis became very angry. It was foolish for her to be jealous of a mere child. Monday afternoon she brought in some strawberries. I was lying down, and she came and said for me to look what a fine box of berries she had. I told her they were fine on top, but probably not so fine at the bottom of the box. This made her angry, and she declared that I didn't care for her any more and that nothing she could do would please me.

Returns, Finds Door Locked.

"I left the house to keep from quarreling and went to a neighboring saloon. Half an hour later I returned and found the door locked. I entered through a window. Mrs. Francis was lying on the bed in a stupor. I supposed she was under the influence of morphine, as she often used the drug. But when I discovered a three-ounce bottle of carbolic acid on a table, almost empty, I became alarmed and called the landlady, Mrs. Joseph B. Lammert. We called physicians, and an ambulance came to take Mrs. Francis to the North Side Dispensary. She died on the way there.

"I first met Mrs. Francis in Cincinnati, where I lived, and she was practicing medicine. That was four years ago. I went to her for treatment and she fell in love with me. She and I have traveled together ever since. She took me to see her married daughter in Pittsburg."

Says She Divorced Two Men.

"Is her husband living?" Greensfield was asked.

"Yes, two of them," he replied, "but she was divorced from both. Her third husband, whose name was Francis, died. Her first husband was Jake Grace, who, she thought, lived in St. Louis. Grace was a strike breaker and made a lot of money during the St. Louis street car strike. Her second husband, named Wagner, lives in Somerville, O. Grace is the father of her married daughter, Mrs. Parl Wilson of 2400 Center street, Pittsburg.

"Mrs. Francis had been getting $10 a week from her sister, Mrs. Joseph Caruthers of Cincinnati, but some time ago these remittances were cut off. She wrote to her daughter for money and received a letter a few days ago, in which the daughter said: 'Look up father and remind him he still has a daughter. Perhaps he may help you out.' She was trying to find Grace. I think the letter made her despondent."

Mrs. Francis was known to Mrs. Lammert and the neighbors as Mrs. Greensfield. She came to St. Louis last March.

Stayed at Home After Fall.

Mrs. Lambert told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Mrs. Francis came to her house and rented a room, saying that her husband would join her shortly. A few days later Greensfield appeared. The man fell and broke his wrist while working several weeks ago, and since then had spent much of his time at home.

"But Mr. Greensfield paid the rent," said Mrs. Lambert, "and Mrs. Greensfield—as I supposed her to be—spent her money on drugs and drink."

Mrs. Sophie Shott, who lives next door to the Lammert home, became well acquainted with Mrs. Francis. She had many conversations with her and learned something of her past life. Mrs. Shott says Mrs. Francis told her she used to practice medicine in Cincinnati, having a commodious office and many patients, but she suffered from nervous prostration and her relatives induced her to come to St. Louis to try to recuperate.

BREWER'S WIFE ON TRIAL AGAIN

Mrs. Kaufman was once convicted of manslaughter after a long trial, full of sensational testimony. The case was appealed and a new trial granted. She is charged with having beaten the girl and of having burned her with hot water, causing her death.

PRESIDENT-CASHIER AND BENBOW CITY BANK REPORTED LOOTED BY RED PEPPER ROBBERS

DOCTOR LOSES HIS 200 TEETH; PICNIC CALAMITY!

Leibrock Assures Patrolmen There Is Nothing False About the Loss.

"Officer, have you seen my teeth?" asked the doctor, between deep breaths.

"Why, yes," replied Pine, calmly gazing at the doctor's mouth and wondering what had inspired the question.

Was Time to Count Teeth.

"They appear to be right where they belong," responded the patrolman, trying to suppress a smile.

"Come now, officer, this is a serious matter and not to be treated lightly," said the doctor. "I must have my teeth. The children have been guessing all day as to the number of teeth I have. The contest is closed now and it is time to count the teeth and distribute the prizes."

Pine signaled to Patrolman Dolan, who was standing a few yards away.

"Have you see the gentleman's teeth?" asked Pine, thinking that he was humoring the doctor.

"I'll bite. What's the joke?" asked Dolan, laughing.

Dr. Leibrock became indignant.

Not False to Patrolman.

"You policemen evidently think that what I am talking about is false," he declared, looking angrily at the two grinning bluecoats.

"They don't look false to me," said Pine, stepping closer and peering into the doctor's mouth.

"This has gone far enough!" shouted the doctor, his face becoming red. "I want you to help me find my teeth. They were in a glass jar, about 200 of them, and they are fine specimens. They were resting on that table over there all day and disappeared only a few minutes ago.

Pine and Dolan became busy immediately. Later they found the jar of teeth beneath the flooring in a storeroom. A man was in charge of the room and the patrolmen took him into their custody.

He Wanted to Put in a Guess.

"What I want with the man's teeth. I got my own yet," said the man. "I want to put in a guess for that prizes which is offered."

"No, you won't put in any guess," said Dolan. "I guess you have counted them."

"I guess you are guessing about something you haven't got any guess coming about," said the man angrily.

He was taken to the station.

Dressmaker Inherits $170,000.

KITTANING, Pa., June 1.—Mrs. Laura Engel, who has for many years supported herself by dressmaking, has received word from a firm of attorneys in Cincinnati that F. L. Engel, an uncle, has recently died there and that her share of his estate will be in the neighborhood of $170,000.

ASSETS OF BENBOW CITY BANK ARE HELD FOR LOAN

Sender of $2500 Express Package Reported Stolen Has $41,000 Collateral As Security—Bank's Paper Protested.

The entire assets of the People's Bank of Benbow City, with a face value of $41,000, are in the possession of Henry N. Barckers of St. Louis as collateral for a $2500 loan, according to statements made Tuesday by S. B. Moore, proprietor of the bank, and John N. Guhman, Barckers' partner in the real estate business.

The $2500 which Barckers sent to the bank by express and which is secured by the $41,000 collateral, arrived at Benbow City just two or three hours before Moore reported that robbers had cleaned out his safe, sprinkling red pepper on the floor and run away through the main street of Benbow while he sat in the bank, too frightened and bewildered to sound an alarm.

The facts with regard to the Barckers loan became public when several certificates of deposit issued by Moore went to protest. Moore said he had borrowed the money from Barckers to take up the outstanding certificates of deposit.

These certificates are held by banks and individuals in St. Louis, Bonne Terre, Mo.; Ste. Genevieve, Mo.; Woodriver and San Antonio, Tex. What they amount to in the aggregate Moore says he doesn't know, as he has misplaced the "little book" in which he kept a record of the certificates of deposit he issued.

The bank was not open Tuesday. There was no notice on the door in explanation. Moore simply failed to appear as usual. Nor did any of the detectives and others who have been investigating the robbery appear on the scene.

Cashier Tells of Life.

Moore has been rather reticent about his personal record, but Monday he suddenly grew more communicative and gave a statement regarding his own past and the affairs of the bank, as well as a thrilling account of the daring robbery.

Moore told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he was born and reared in Berry County, that he had lived in Wayne County some years, and that he came to St. Louis from Cape Girardeau about three years ago. He was in the granite business there, he said.

"I worked for the Frisco Railroad in different parts of Missouri as a foreman on construction work," he said, "and after I went to St. Louis was employed in the United Railways shops. I also sold timber and real estate for Mr. Guhman on commission. I've known him for 15 years."

Two St. Louis Depositors.

He said Guhman and Barckers both deposited in the People's Bank of Benbow, but they were the only St. Louis depositors the bank had, he said. He started the bank with $1500. Later, he said, he put into the institution mining, oil and other stocks and bonds, with a face value of $41,000.

He did not tell of the origin of these securities, simply saying that he "had them." He would not say they were profits of the bank, but declared that he owned them when he started the bank.

Last summer he began issuing certificates of deposit. These were issued, he said, against Barckers' and other accounts. He had the money on hand, he said, to cover these certificates when they were issued.

Asked No Aid From Banks.

He had to meet these certificates, he said, and had loaned out all his money, or all but about $1500, which he had to keep to pay checks as they were presented. He thought of trying to borrow some money from a St. Louis bank, but found that he could get a loan from Barckers, the partner of his friend Guhman, so he didn't ask any St. Louis bank for assistance.

Barckers and Guhman were in Benbow together Thursday and looked over the $41,000 of securities, Moore and Guhman both say, Barckers decided that the $41,000 worth of stocks and bonds ought to be sufficient security for a loan of $2500. So he took the securities with him and shipped the money by express when he reached St. Louis.

Robbery Spoiled Plans.

The money was delivered at the bank Friday morning. It was placed in the safe with about $1000, which was held to cash checks and carry on the bank's daily business. Then, says Moore, the robbers intervened and spoiled his plans.

"It was about 1 p. m.," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "when two men, one short and the other tall, came into the bank. They wore black slouch hats. One of them had a check which he said he wanted cashed. I didn't get my hands on the check, for they whipped out revolvers.

"While the tall man kept him "covered," he said, the short man scurried around and cleaned out the safe. Then

ZEPPELIN FLIES AGAIN; DAMAGED AIRSHIP FIXED

Temporary Repairs Enable Flight to Friedrichshafen to Be Resumed.

DELAYED BUT ONE DAY

It Was at First Reported That Necessary Work Would Require Six Weeks.

TO REACH NORTH POLE

Lieut. Lahm Declares Problem of Arctic Regions Is Near Solution.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, June 1.

EMPEROR WILLIAM has sent a telegram to Count Zeppelin, in which he regrets the fact that he was not successful in reaching Berlin in the flight that began Saturday night, and expressing the keen disappointment of himself and the citizens of the capital.

"Thousands of soldiers missed their holiday waiting to assist you," His Majesty said, "and I trust that you will make up for the disappointment of the people of Berlin. I had hoped to see you a guest at my palace, where rooms had been prepared and a meal with a loving cup was ready for you at the officers' mess. I hope to see you soon in Berlin."

The Count replied as follows:

"I never said I was coming to Berlin. Somebody sent a fraudulent dispatch to the balloon battalion's headquarters, demanding that preparations be made. I hope that an inquiry will be instituted to discover whence this message came.

"The reason for my non-appearance in Berlin was fear that the supply of benzine would not suffice to take me to Berlin and back to Friedrichshafen. I hope in six weeks to be able to report to you in Berlin with my repaired airship."

GOEPHINGEN, June 1.—Count Zeppelin, whose airship was wrecked here yesterday when it struck a tree at the end of a record flight of 850 miles, proved the practicability of navigating the air under adverse circumstances today by completing temporary repairs on his crippled craft and sailing off in the direction of Friedrichshafen.

It had been given out that workmen sent here from Lake Constance would require at least six weeks to repair the damage done to the airship's prow and to close securely the long rent in the envelope in a forward compartment. Consequently all Germany was astonished this afternoon when the news was flashed broadcast that the Count had gone aloft again, and was on his way back to the starting sheds from which he made his 37-hour flight Saturday night, Sunday and Monday morning.

The position of the craft yesterday was extremely unfavorable, the ground being very hilly. The bow rested on the ground, while the stern was about [illegible] feet in the air. A strong breeze sprang up last evening, causing no little anxiety for the safety of the airship, which it was feared would be wrecked should a storm come up during the night.

After considerable labor and with the assistance of some of those who had gathered at the scene of the accident, Count Zeppelin was able to shift the position of his airship a little, and thus give better protection from the wind.

That the collision was severe was indicated by the broken and bent strips of aluminum lying about the ground and the half-split branches dangling from the trunk of the tree. Enormous crowds soon assembled and it became almost impossible for vehicles to pass along the public highways.

Lahm Thinks Airship Will Solve North Pole Problem.

OMAHA, Neb., June 1.—Aeronauts at Fort Omaha are greatly interested in the performance of the Zeppelin airship. Discussing the flight, Lieut. Lahm, officer in charge of the balloon corps, said:

"It was certainly wonderful, but nothing more than I have been looking for. Navigating the air is bound to come and it will come much sooner than most people expect. Of course, this flight of Count Zeppelin is the record, which heretofore has been 12 hours in the air and 179 miles. The United States is far behind Eudope in its machines for air voyages, and if something is not done soon we will be outclassed and outdistanced.

"Here at Fort Omaha we have the best of the American ships, and it is a pigmy as compared with the Zeppelin. Our ship has a 16-horsepower motor and carries 20,000 cubic feet of gas. The German ship has two 100-horsepower motors and a capacity for [illegible] cubic feet of gas, so that it is easy to see that we are not in the same class. It is apparent that there is no end to the possibilities of airships. If they can travel 850 miles there is no reason why they cannot travel thousands.

"The airship solves the North Pole problem, and within a short time a machine will be constructed that will sail directly to the much-sought spot. As machines for use in times of war they will bring about a complete change in present methods. It will not be long until they will be constructed with sufficient power to carry a large number of men and all necessary implements for destroying fortifications and armies that they pass over."

WOMAN SWEARS PRIEST TOLD HER TO GET DIVORCE

Later He Changed His Advice, According to Mrs. Margaret Noonan.

When Mrs. Margaret Noonan, 22 years old, testified in Judge Grimms's court Tuesday that the Rev. Father Daniel McErlane had advised her to sue for divorce, the priest, who was in the courtroom, shook his head in vigorous denial of the statement.

Father McErlane was present as a witness for John J. Noonan of 3633 Finney avenue, defendant in Mrs. Noonan's divorce suit.

Mr. Noonan, immediately afterward, testified that the priest had later written to her, telling her to abandon the thought of divorce, and threatening her, if she persisted in her purpose, with the refusal of the sacraments.

"I went to see Father McErlane," Mrs. Noonan testified, "and he told me he would not talk with me, unless I would bring my husband along. I told him I could not bring my husband, as I did not know where to find him. He had caused his name to be left out of the City Directory."

Mrs. Noonan said she and her husband agreed, more than a year ago, to go to Father McErlane with their troubles and abide by his decision, but that the husband "backed out," saying he could settle his own affairs without help.

Couple Traveled About.

Mrs. Noonan has one child, a boy. She was married when 18. Her testimony showed that she and her husband lived at various times in Houston, Tex., and in Little Rock, returning to St. Louis after each absence. Judge O'Neill Ryan, the husband's lawyer, tried to show in cross-examination that these returns to St. Louis were due to the wife's homesickness, and that the husband left a good position in each place in order to gratify his wife's wish to live in St. Louis.

Mrs. Noonan testified that her husband was unkind, that she had to humor and coax him in all matters, that he never kissed her on leaving or returning to the house and that he would not carry in coal.

EDITORS RESIST REMOVAL IN SUIT CHARGING LIBEL

Case Against Owners of the Indianapolis News Based on Panama Articles.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 1.—Charged with having committed criminal libel in publishing articles saying that there was corruption in the purchase of the Panama Canal by the United States, Delavan Smith and Charles R. Williams, owners of the Indianapolis News, appeared before Judge Anderson in the United States court today.

They are resisting the effort of the Federal Government to remove them for trial to the District of Columbia, the grand jury of which, following the indictment against them and the editors of the New York World in the same matter.

Stuart McNamars, Assistant United States Attorney for the District of Columbia, made the Government's opening statement. He said the defendants had published in their newspaper charges that a syndicate composed of C. P. Taft, Douglass Robinson, William Nelson Cromwell, J. Pierpont Morgan and others bought from the old Panama Canal company its securities for about $12,000,000 and by use of their influence in the high places of the Government were enabled to unload the Panama property on the United States for about $40,000,000, thus wrongfully taking an enormous profit.

Indictment Is Attacked.

Mr. McNamara asked that Judge Anderson, sitting as a committing magistrate, make an order removing Messrs. Smith and Williams to the District of Columbia for trial.

Ferdinand Winter, for the defense, maintained that the indictment was defective on its face; that the offense alleged was not one in which defendants could be removed from their own United States District to another for trial.

He called the first witness, Ernest L. Lewis, a staff correspondent for the Indianapolis News, intending to examine him as to instructions given to him for the writng of certain articles, but the objection was raised by United States Attorney Miller for this district that the only point before the court was as to the power of the court to order the defendant's removal, and that the merits of the cause could not properly be entered at this time.

Mr. Winter answered that it was proper to attempt to show an indictment was faulty or baselesss as bearing upon an application for removal and proceeded to cite authorities. In this case, he said, actual malice must be shown and this, he held, would be impossible.

Witnesses Heard.

After argument, the court ruled that he would hear the evidence. Mr. Lewis proceeded to testify that he was about the National Republican and Democratic headquarters in Chicago in October of 1908, and that there was gossip of the conditions of the transfer of the Panama Canal zone to the United States. He said he took no notice of the matter in his dispatches to his newspaper until after the publication in a Chcago newspaper of a cable from Paris bearing on the subject, and that he had no instructions from the defendants as to his course in reporting these rumors and allegations.

On objection of the prosecution and following arguments on the nature of malice as it must appear in a successful prosecution for criminal libel, the Court commented that if an editor of a New York newspaper, for instance, were absent on his yacht and a libelous statement were printed in his paper in his absence, he should not, in the opinion of the Court, be guilty, by neglect, of criminal libel.

Standard Oil Case Mentioned.

This opinion was question by the prosecution. Neglect, the Court continued, was not criminal, as appeared—and here Judge Anderson smiled broadly—"in the somewhat notorious Standard Oil case."

Alleged intimations that a profit of $28,000,000 fraudulently obtained had been divided among the members of the "Panama syndicate," as published in the Indianapolis News, were read by District Attorney Miller in an effort to show the defendants were malicious. One of the editorial sentences was "Some day the thieves that robbed their country will be discovered."

The Court permitted the examination of the witness to proceed. Mr. Lewis said he had heard the gossip of a "Panama Canal graft" at the political headquarters and in the hotel lobbies of Chicago, but he had not written of it in his paper until he saw in the Chicago Daily News a cable dispatch containing the same allegations. He then included in a dispatch to the Indianapolis News the Chicago News cablegram.

He further quoted from an editorial in the Chicago Journal, saying that if the American people had been mulcted and if Charles P. Taft had a hand in the fraud, the matter should be known to the public at once.

R. T. LINCOLN ILL FROM HEAT

Is Almost Overcome at Unveiling of Father's Statue.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 1.—Robert T. Lincoln, son of Abraham Lincoln, was made ill by the heat yesterday toward the close of the ceremonies at the unveiling of his father's statue in the county seat of Hodgenville. The fierce rays of the sun beating down upon the canvas over his head, the emotion incident to the memorials and the fatigue of his journey almost unnereved him.

He leaned heavily upon the arm of Henry Watterson, who spoke at the exercises and who escorted him to his car. After he had spent several hours in his private car, Mr. Lincoln was completely restored.

SCHOOL BOARD IS EXPECTED TO PROMOTE LONG

Supply Commissioner Will Be Made Either Secretary or Auditor.

It is expected by persons familiar with what has happened at secret caucuses of the members of the Board of Education that Edward Brown will be appointed next Tuesday to succeed John A. Long as Supply Commissioner.

Mr. Long, it is under stood, will be made either secretary, to succeed C. L. Hammerstein, or Auditor, to succeed Charles P. Mason. If Mr. Long is made secretary, Mr. Mason will hold his present position. There is a probability, however, that Mr. Mason will be made secretary. In this event Mr. Long will become auditor.

Is Recommended by Crunden.

Mr. Brown was formerly purchasing agent for a wholesale grocery house and was highly recommended for the place by Councilman Frank P. Crunden and others.

Mr. Hammerstein has tendered his resignation, and it has been accepted. The secretary receives a salary of $4500, the auditor $3000 and the supply commissioner $2500. It is said no change now will be made in the Building Commissioner, who gets a salary of $7600.

Reports have been in circulation that politics has been a disturbing factor in the Board of Education recently. The Democrats have maintained for a long time that Republicans have held the best positions.

Mr. Hammerstein, Mr. Mason, Mr. Long, Dr. Stewart, the physician, and Building Commissioner Ittner are Republicans. The Democrats have a few minor positions.

President Garneau of the Board was asked about the changes that are to be made in the office force of the organization.

"We have been holding caucuses on this matter," he said, "and we are all pledged to secrecy." "Is Mr. Brown to succeed Mr. Long as Supply Commissioner?" he was asked.

He Is Pledged to Secrecy.

"I cannot tell you. I am pledged to secrecy."

"Why is the Board of Education, which is a public body, holding secret caucuses?" he was asked.

"I deny your right to ask me that question. We are meeting as individuals to talk over these matters. The public has no interest in these matters, except in the finality of our conclusions.

"If you are lookigg for news you will have to see somebody else. I am not going to tell anything about what we do at the caucuses."

From another member of the board it was learned that the changes in the office force are to be determined finally next Tuesday.

The salaries of the principals of the different schools are also to be increased, if plans now under discussion are agreed on.

Addresses will be made by Prof. W. S. Scarborough of Wilberforce, Bishop David W. Moore and Rev. D. W. Clarke. The memorial is a fine granite bowlder bearing a bronze plate, on which is engraved a verse from Dunbar's "Death Song."

COLLINS COULD HAVE BEEN TRIED IN THE COUNTY

Shackelford Would Have Prosecuted if Prisoner Had Been Turned Over.

Prosecuting Attorney Shackelford of St. Louis County told a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday that he would have prosecuted Johnny Collins, confessed pickpocket, and would have made every possible effort to send him to the Penitentiary, if the St. Louis police had turned the prisoner over to him.

The latest crime charged to Collins, the robbery of passengers on a Normandy Grove car, was committed in the county. Collins was arrested in St. Louis, and the St. Louis police, rather than turn him over to the county authorities, asked the revocation of his parole, granted after his plea of guilty to a previous robbery in the city.

He is now awaiting removal to the Penitentiary, his parole having been revoked by Judge Allen on Circuit Attorney Jones' recommendation.

Judge Allen, in the Criminal Court Tuesday, granted a parole, over the virtual protest of Circuit Attorney Jones, to William E. Clark.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Dyer, who said Monday that the parole in Collins' case was granted with the expectation that he would commit another offense, declined to recommend clemency for Clark, a first offender, who had served eight months of a one-year Workhouse term, and who had a position awaiting him.

"My theory of the parole system," said Judge Allen, "is that it is intended to reform men, to give them a chance to do better, while holding over them immediate punishment as a deterrent to wrongdoing. In view of the circumstances in this case, I believe it is one to which the parole system was meant to apply."

Shackelford said Tuesday that Collins' criminal record never had been presented officially to him, and that no complaint of the car robbery had been made to him. Sheriff Grueninger also said he had no knowledge of Collins' offense.

"Circuit Attorney Jones is absent," said Dyer. "He declined, before he left, to recommend this parole, and I shall not go beyond his action."

"The parole will be issued," said Judge Allen, and Clark left the courtroom with his relatives, promising to make the required reports to the Court at regular intervals.

Relatives' Request Is Denied.

Relatives for some time have tried to persuade the Circuit Attorney to consent to Clark's release, on a parole, from the Workhouse. Jones declined, saying he saw no reason for leniency in the case.

Clark, while intoxicated, forged a check for $5. He was sentenced to the Workhouse for a year for fourth degree forgery. As a prisoner, he overcame his appetite for drink. Relatives obtained a position in Milwaukee for him. These facts, when presented to Judge Allen, caused him to override the Circuit Attorney.

ECZEMA CURED IN SIMPLE WAY

No More Dosing the Stomach—Cure the Skin Through the Skin.

When you have a scratch on your hand you wash it out and cleanse it and then the skin cures itself.

The best skin specialists today are agreed that the only way to cure the skin is through the skin. For statistics show that nearly all eczema sufferers are perfectly healthy in all other ways except as to their skin. And if the eczema patients were really suffering from an internal malady, the entire body and not only the skin would be diseased.

You can prove immediately the relief of a true skin cure by using oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription. This liquid kills the disease germs, while toning up the healthy part of the skin.

We have now handled this meritorious and thoroughly scientific remedy for so long and have seen its reliable results so many times that we freely express our confidence.

State of Missouri, }
City of St. Louis, } ss.

Personally appeared before me, a Notary Public, in and for the City of St. Louis, Mo., W. C. Steigers, Business Manager of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who deposes and says that the regular editions of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch for the first four months of the year 1909, after deducting all copies left over unsold, spoiled in printing and unaccounted for:

The Largest Exclusive Women's and Children's Outfitting Store in the West

Garland's

About 8 out of Every 10 Customers Are Fitted Here Without a Single Alteration

We Announce for Wednesday an Important Sale of Summer Apparel

In making this announcement we will cite some of the logical reasons for the distinctiveness of this "Store for Women"—for the exclusiveness of style—the excellence of workmanship reflected in everything shown here—and why our prices are lower than in any other store.

Being a Women's and Children's Store Exclusively Gives Us Many Advantages Over the Average Store

—our experienced knowledge of women's requirements and tastes.

—our studied adaptation of fabrics and styles to the personality of the wearer.

—our deserved prestige among American and foreign manufacturers.

—the preference given us on account of the magnitude of our purchases.

—our earnestness to please, while declining to "urge" or "press" you to "buy."

With these favorable conditions existing at all times, and with features of unusual importance in this sale, we invite your careful attention to a few of the offerings.

June Sale of French and American Undermuslins

THIS is a typical Grand-Leader sale, for the reason that it provides an unlimited range for choosing and a great number of saving opportunities. We hold a great many of the "good things" for the inaugural of these selling events to add to their interest, as it were, and make buying more spirited.

Three thousand sample pieces of French Undermuslins, bought one-third below value, will go in the June Sale.

THESE garments were made expressly for some of the largest dealers in lingerie. They were used for samples and designs. After they had served their purpose, our Paris representatives secured them at one-third off, and we, in turn, offer them to you at an equal saving. (Second Floor.)

Three Couldn't Get Out When Small Hole Held Fourth.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., June 1.—At the residence of Lawyer Eckard P. Budd on High street an olive bottle was thrown into the garbage barrel and when someone went to cart away the refuse the bottle was discovered to have served the purpose of a trap for three rats, while a fourth had involuntarily substituted himself for a cork.

The supposition is that the rats inside became imprisoned when unable to turn around and crawl out, and that the one wedged like a cork had tackled a hole too small for its body.

When Mr. Budd failed to offer any assistance to the imprisoned rats it was the first time in recent years that he has failed to plead for the release of prisoners.

SALOON LICENSES $7,000,000

Chicago's Income Under the $1000 Law.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Every saloon license in force April 30 has been renewed for the first period of 1909. The first trial balance, struck by Ernest Magerstadt, City Collector, shows that for the first time since the $1000 license and the Harkin ordinance limiting the number of saloons went into effect in 1905, not a single saloon has allowed its permit to lapse.

City officials believe that in future Chicago's income from the saloons will never fall below $7,000,000 a year.

Thirteen applications for licenses are still being considered. When they are issued Chicago will have 7151 saloons.

AKINS BECOMES POSTMASTER AND MARTINASSISTANT

THINKS SALARIES LOW

Believes Subtreasurers Should Get Together and Demand Increase.

Thomas J. Akins became Postmaster of St. Louis Tuesday, and Oscar L. Whitelaw succeeded Mr. Akins as Assistant Treasurer of the United States. Mr. Akins first turned over the Subtreasury, with its $32,000,000 cash, to Whitelaw, and then went down to the first floor and took charge of the Postoffice.

Frank Wyman, who has been Postmaster at St. Louis for nearly six years, had everything in readiness for Mr. Akins when the new Postmaster arrived to take charge. Evi F. Martin was sworn in as Assistant Postmaster.

Friends of the new officials sent them flowers, and several dropped in to congratulate them. Mr. Akins said he had nothing of interest to say, except that the people would continue to get their mail as usual.

Mr. Whitelaw said it required but a few minutes for him to discover that salaries of employes of the Subtreasury were entirely too low, considering the responsibility and the work. The salaries range from $900 a year, the lowest, to $2500 a year, the highest.

Thinks Increase Should Be Asked.

"The men who do the work in the Subtreasury ought to be better paid," said Mr. Whitelaw. "I think the Subtreasurers of the United States ought to get together and demand an increase in the salaries."

The cash balance in the Subtreasury at the close of business Saturday was $32,159,167.93. Five men selected by the Treasury Department were sent here from Washington to count the money. It will take them two weeks to make the count.

There are $19,000,000 in gold in the Subtreasury, of which $15,000,000 is in $20 gold pieces. There is not much demand for $20 gold pieces for commercial purposes. There are $5,000,000 in silver coins and the balance is in currency.

The men who are counting the money are D. W. Herriott, T. F. Athey, J. N. Kline, Charles Fisher and O. W. Birckhead.

Twenty-five postoffice inspectors began checking up the Postoffice Tuesday. The work will require a week.

Result of Long War.

Mr. Akins becomes Postmaster as the result of a long war waged upon Mr. Wyman by the politicians, whom he refused to recognize in making his appointments. Jeptha D. Howe, the former "Crying Boss" of the Republicans, desired to have a hand in making Mr. Wyman's appointments. Mr. Wyman thought he was qualified to make the appointments without consulting the politicians, and for that reason he incurred their enmity.

It required a constant fight of nearly two years to get Mr. Wyman out. The postmastership was originally promised to Mr. Whitelaw, but after it became an assured fact that Mr. Wyman would not be retained the politicians demanded that the job be given to Mr. Akins. Mr. Whitelaw was then appointed to taken Mr. Akins' place as Subtreasurer.

ALL DEFENDANT ROADS FILE DEMURRERS TO OUSTER SUIT

Case Against Great Western Dismissed Because It Is in Hands of Receiver.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 1.—All defendant railroads in the suit of the Attorney-General to oust them from Missouri for alleged violation of the State anti-trust law have filed demurrers to the prosecuting official's information. The case against the Chicago & Great Western was dismissed on the application of the Attorney-General, who said he took this action because the road was in the hands of a receiver, appointed by a Federal court.

The roads filing demurrers today, the documents being exactly similar to those offered Saturday and yesterday, were: Missouri Pacific, Iron Mountain, Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City; Clinton & Springfield, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe; St. Joseph & Grand Island and Missouri, Kansas & Texas.

An effort will be made by the Attorney-General to obtain an early hearing of the case, but the Supreme Court already has indicated its intention of setting the arguments on the demurrers for the October term of court.

Every Man Read This

This treatment is said to have acquired a wonderful reputation throughout the East, owing to its peculiar propensity to fortify the nervous force and generate health and a consequent personal magnetism, so essential to the happiness of every normal human being. It is claimed to be a blessing to those who are physically impaired, gloomy, despondent, nervous and who have trembling of the limbs, dizziness, heart palpitation, cold hands and feet, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing and general inability to act rationally as others do. Also of vast benefit to writers, professional men, office workers and the victims of society's late hours and over-indulgence in wines, liquors, etc.

By preparing the treatment at home secretly no one need know of another's trouble, while the ingredients are much used in filling various prescriptions, so that even the purchase of them separately need occasion no timidity.

If the reader decides to try it, get three ounces of ordinary syrup sarsaparilla compound, and one ounce compound fluid balmwort; mix and let stand two hours; then get one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom), mix all together, shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at night.

INSURANCE COMPANIES ASK REHEARING IN SALARY CASE

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—Motions for a rehearing in the "Salary Case" were filed in the Supreme Court of Missouri today by the Equitable Life Assurance Society, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and the Prudential Insurance Co.

This is the first step in perfecting an appeal to the United States Supreme Court of the decision by which they were recently denied the right to conduct their business in this State because of the statute barring such companies as pay any of their officers a salary in excess of $50,000 a year.

The companies sued for a writ of mandamus to compel the State Superintendent of Insurance to issue licenses to them, and have been conducting their affairs in the State under sufferance of an agreement with the authorities that final action was to await the decison of the Federal tribunals.

RENO YOUNG WOMAN SAVED FROM DROWNING BY COLLIE

Dog Swims Ashore With Ribbon on Collar and Brings Assistance.

SAUSALITO, Cal., June 1.—Through the sagacity of her collie which she took boating on the bay with her yesterday, Miss Carrol Sheldon, daughter of H. H. Sheldon, a stock broker of Reno, Nev., was saved from drowning.

The young woman was rowing a small boat when the waves from a passing ferry boat caused the little craft to capsize and its occupants were thrown into the water.

The girl took a ribbon from her hair, tied it to the dog's collar and commanded him to go home. The animal swam ashore and running to the residence of Mrs. Penfield Taylor, barked loudly until Newton Faucett, a Reno mining broker, followed him. The rescue of Miss Sheldon followed.

MISSING BASSO HAS HABIT OF DISAPPEARING

George A. Osgood Left Family Once Before Without Announcing Intention.

MARRIED SECOND TIME

Left First Wife in Massachusetts, Where He Learned the Shoe Business.

In the investigation following the disappearance of George A. Osgood from his home, 1477 Goodfellow avenue, it has developed that this is not the first time he has left his family. Several years ago he left St. Louis without notifying his relatives of his intention. Previous to that he deserted a wife in a small town in Massachusetts and came to St. Louis.

"George Osgood has an idiosyncrasy for running away from home whenever he is seriously disturbed about anything," said a man who has known the missing merchant and professional basso ever since he has been in St. Louis, about 25 years.

Wife Calls at Studio.

Mrs. Osgood called on Miss Lottie Nehring at the flat rented by her husband at 3610 Finney avenue, Monday afternoon, and asked the young woman if she knew where Osgood was. Miss Nehring told Mrs. Osgood that she had not seen Osgood for a week, that he had not told her he was going away, and that she had heard nothing from him since he disappeared.

To a reporter for the Post-Dispatch Miss Nehring said that she had frequently told Osgood to bring his wife down to see the studio which he maintained in the front room of the flat, and that he told her he would do so, but he neglected to fulfill his promise.

Miss Nehring, a ladies' tailor, occupied the rear rooms of the flat.

George A. Osgood was known as Addison G. Osgood when he first came to St. Louis and went to work for the Desnoyers-Brown Shoe Co. He had studied music in Boston and had a fine bass voice. He had no difficulty in getting a position in a choir and for several years sang in St. John's Catholic Church. Later he sang in the choir of the First Presbyterian Church, at Fourteenth and Lucas avenue, where the Gayety Theater now stands.

Voice Attracted Attention.

No one knew anything of Osgood's past when he came to St. Louis, but he attracted attention in musical circles by his voice and he advanced rapidly in the shoe manufacturing business. After he had been here two or three years he married Miss Goddard, daughter of Elbridge Goddard, a miller, and head of one of the old families of St. Louis, whom he met in the church.

The mystery surrounding his past was then uncovered. When a young man he had learned the shoe trade in Lowell, Mass., and there married the daughter of the woman with whom he boarded. One day his clothes were found piled up on the bank of the river and Osgood was seen no more. His wife and friends believed he had been drowned, and he was mourned as dead.

Osgood apparently was doing well in his occupation, a son had been born to him, to whom he was devotedly attached, when he again disappeared. Several days after his departure a friend in St. Louis received a telegram from him in Kansas City, saying that he had left St. Louis and would not return.

His father-in-law instituted a search for him. The police were put on his trail and private detectives investigated his career closely. It was learned that he had rented a room in the old Pope Building, since razed to make room for the Century Building.

He was finally found in a shoe town in Massachusetts where he was learning the trade of shoe cutting. Mr. Goddard induced him to return to St. Louis, where he was employed as basso in the first Presbyterian Church choir, and went to work for the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co.

Organized Leather Concern.

In late years he has sung with success in the choirs of the Lindell Boulevard Church, and the Grand Avenue Presbyterian Church, and he is well known to the musical public.

Two years ago he organized the St. Louis Leather Findings Co. at 5752 Theodosia avenue with his son, Joseph Goddard Osgood, as his partner. Last Thursday he drew $3000 from the Bank of Wellston and again disappeared from home. His disappearance was made public when his son complained to the police of the Page Avenue Station, asking that he be found and the money recovered.

The son was told by Sergt. O'Toole that as he had taken his own money from the bank the police had no right to act in the matter.

TAFT TOUCHES A KEY AND OPENS SEATTLE'S FAIR

Beautiful Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition Started in Ideal Weather.

GROUNDS AMID LAKES

Thousands See First Ceremonies—European Countries Have Exhibits.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 1.—President Taft touched a golden telegraph wey in the White House at Washington at 8 o'clock thi safternoon and the electric current thus established started the wheels of the Alaska-Yukan-Pacific Exposition here at noon, western time. Perfect weather attended the formal opening of the great fair, which was witnessed by many thousands of visitors.

The exposition, which was financed by the West, is designed as a demonstration of how the Northwest empire has grown up from a wilderness in three-quarters of a century. The exposition represents an expenditure of $10,000,000. The grounds are situated between two beautiful lakes and in full view are some of the loftiest and most picturesque mountains in the world.

The principal speech at the opening ceremonies was delivered by James J. Hill, whose interest in the exposition has been keen since it was projected. Mr. Hill spoke of the natural resources of the country and pleaded against the present-day tendency to get away from "equality, simplicity, economy and justice." His most emphasized point was the necessity for more enforcement of the law and less making of new laws.

"Pay Streak" Fun Center.

The "midway" of the Chicago World's Fair and the "Pike" of the St. Louis Exposition has become here "The Pay Streak," this being the amusement center of the fair, and promising to become as famous as its prototypes.

The general scheme of architecture of the fair is the French Renaissance. In addition to the State buildings, there are impressive structures erected for Alaska, Japan, Hawaii, Canada, the Philippines, and in the Foreign Palace, Germany, France, Great Britain and other countries have exhibits.

Cats Guard Hoo-Hoo House.

In the rear of the Forestry Building and on a hill overlooking Lake Washington is the Hoo Hoo house, the home of visiting lumbermen. Large black cats, with sparkling eyes, guard the entrance gates.

Off from the main exposition streets are the model farm, the athletic stadium and the stock exhibit, the miles of woodland paths, natural parks and restaurants set in among the trees and shrubbery. Drinking fountains have been provided, the water supply coming direct from Cedar Mountain. The grounds are well lighted and French electroliers outline the vistas.

Lakes Union and Washington, adjoining the exposition, permit of aquatic sports of every nature. Military and naval drills participated in by sailors from the American and Japanese cruisers and soldiers from the Government forts near Seattle are features and the reviews of the troops are witnessed by thousands of visitors.

Airship Races Among Events.

Balloon and airship races are among the big events and aeroplane tests are conducted by the Seattle Aero Club. Some of the fastest motor boats in the world race daily on Lake Washington, and picked crews from the Igorrote and Eskimo villages try their skill in handling the oars in their native craft.

The amusement street at Seattle contains a full mile of attractions. Bands of every nation give concerts daily.

The landscaping of the grounds has been carried out on an elaborate plan. In the illumination, thousands of incandescent lamps have been strung along the buildings. The Alaska shaft is made a tower of light and the Cascades are broken into rainbows. The Geyser Basin, at the foot of the falls, also is made beautiful by hundreds of submerged lights of various colors.

ENFORCE OLD LAWS, MAKE NO NEW ONES, IS HILL'S ADVICE

THE greatest service to the nation, to every State and city today, would be the substitution, for a term of years, of law enforcement for lawmaking. Get the laws fairly tried. Weed out those improper or impracticable, curtail the contempt of law that flourishes under the American system of nonenforcement.

To establish equality needs heroism, it involves the shaking off of ostentatious follies that have already warped our earlier ideals. It demands the repeal of many laws and the suppression of many of the bills presented to State and Federal legislatures. So many are there framed to give to one an undue advantage or take away from another fair field and an equal judgment.

WE have complicated our educational system and made it superficial. We have complicated our social life until natural human intercourse is overlaid with a thick stratum of vulgar prodigality, luxury, display and insincerity. We have complicated our lawmaking until the administration of justice is difficult and sometimes uncertain. We have complicated our financial system until it encourages the wildest speculation at one moment and at another sinks into business collapse.

Economy, nationally considered, has become almost a forgotten term. This is the most wasteful country on earth in its administrative features and the discarded standard of economy must be restored.—From Speech of James J. Hill at Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

MISFIT HAT, CIGAR AND $100 BET WITH C. P. TAFT ON BALL GAME PROVE KNOX IS SPORT

Secretary of State's Conduct in Grandstand at Pittsburg Is Revelation to Washington.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Washington doesn't know Philander C. Knox, Secretary of State. Washington thinks he is a man who wouldn't give a thought to anything less than a six-cylinder foreign nation or a three-geared domestic problem. The country has taken its impression of the premier from Washington and has gone wrong, too.

Secretary Knox is a sport. No one who saw him at the baseball game at Pittsburg with the President could have a doubt of it. In the first place, loyal to Pittsburg and unimpressed by the fact that one of the owners of the Chicago Cubs, Charles P. Taft, was present, he announced on the way to the game his firm belief that Pittsburg would win. Taking a dispute of this statement by C. P. Taft as a challenge, Mr. Knox offered to bet $100 on the game. C. P. Taft was game, too, and the bet was made. Secretary Knox lost, but he had a lot of fun early in the game, when Pittsburg took and held the lead for a time.

The Secretary wore a silk hat to the Country Club, but when baseball time arrived he looked up his former law partner, who had a soft straw hat, and forced an exchange. The partner's hat was too big, but that didn't bother Mr. Knox at all. He let it rest on his ears and paid no attention to the "guying" of the party.

The partner was in a worse predicament, as the Secretary's hat was so small that he could wear it in only the most rakish fashion, which moved the President to point him out as a bunco steerer and to warn the party to keep hands on pocketbooks.

The Secretary of State, seated in the front row of the Pittsburg grandstand, misfit straw hat carelessly placed on his head and a seven-inch cigar, smoking like a Pittsburg factory chimney in prosperity times, was a revelation to the Washington visitors with the Taft party.

WOMAN FEARS LOCKJAW, GETS IT

Rusty Nail Penetrates Her Foot and She Goes to Hospital.

The "sardonic grin," a conspicuous symptom of tetanus or lockjaw, manifested itself Tuesday on the countenance of Mrs. Hattie Plusek, 31 years old, 3617 Missouri avenue, who was taken to the City Hospital Sunday fearing that she would have the disease as a result of stepping on a rusty nail at her home two weeks ago.

Mrs. Plusek was treated with antitetanic serum, but, besides the set grin, her jaws were beginning to lock Tuesday. The hospital physicians, however, did not anticipate that Mrs. Pluseck's illness would result fatally. The rusty nail which caused the trouble entered the ball of the right foot.

TELLS, AFTER 2 WEEKS, OF LOSS OF $60 WATCH

D. J. Buckley Declares He Missed Timepiece After Visit to Strange House.

More than two weeks passed before Daniel J. Buckley of 4168 Easton avenue could overcome his embarrassment and tell the police that while he was "in his cups" someone stole his $60 watch. But finally a desire to recover the watch got the upperhand of his embarrassment and Tuesday he had the police looking for the house where he says he lost the watch.

Buckley says he boarded a Wellston car at King's highway on the night of May 15 and started home. He intended to disembark at Sarah street, but he thinks he went to the vicinity of Twelfth and Morgan streets. In his uncertain mental condition, he climbed steps and started to go out on a second-story porch. He is quite sure of that.

His next recollection that is at all concrete is of being kicked down the steps. He is sure of that. He had a watch when he got on the street car. He didn't have any when he picked himself up and looked to ascertain the hour at which he was kicked.

He described the house where he was kicked in a hazy way, but the police will try to find out where it was.

PANTALOON GOWN IS SUCCESSOR OF THE DIRECTOIRE

Oh, you suffragette, did you inspire the latest kink in gowns? "Pants" is a vulgar word, and it is not in use in correct circles, but that is what the designer calls his new creation, "La Pantalon," which means plain pants. It is said to be the successor of the "Directoire," on the general lines of which it is built. But it is also pants.

"La Pantalon" is about as close to the masculine bifurcated garment as they dare come in women's gowns. But, perhaps, it is only a starter, and that from this beginning the dressmakers will go further. Just now they have only half completed the job.

Designed for French Races.

"La Pantalon" was designed for the June races at Longchamps this year, as the "directoire" was the sensation of the Grand Prix races of last year.

It has the general loose lines and full expansiveness of the "directoire." but from the knee down in front it is bifurcated.

It is being shown for the first time in this country simultaneously in New York and in St. Louis. Several models of the pantaloon suit are being shown at the store of B. Nugent & Bro. Dry Goods Co., and Monday, the first day of the exhibition, the roped space on the second floor, in which two statuesque models paced back and forth was hemmed about with women who gazed curiously at the beautiful gowns of olive and heliotrope. Several men were peeking about to get a glimpse at the pantaloons, but the woman did not give them much chance.

When the wearer of a pantaloon gown is standing the skirt has a normal appearance, but when she walks the gown falls in from the knee down and there seems to be just the teenty weentiest suggestion of trousers. It is not pronounced enough to bring a blush to the cheek of the most callous man, however.

One thing said for the pantaloon skirt is that it gives to the wearer some of the freedom of the opposite sex. A man wouldn't think so, however, and, anyway, he wouldn't take a chance of jumping on a street car with one of them on.

Really, the pantaloon skirt is beautiful to the eye, whatever the excess of utility claimed for them, and the only thing against them from a man's point of view, barring the attempt to encroach upon his prerogative to wear the pants, is the number of buttons [illegible] fall to him if he be married. The go[illegible] carry 144—count 'em—144 buttons [illegible]ch.

The pantaloon gowns will be on display in Nugent's costume rooms from 10 to 12 in the morning, and from 2 to 4 in the afternoon every day until every one has had a chance to see them.

MORE TROUBLE ABOUT STATUE

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The troubles of the historic Greenough statue of George Washington will never end. The statue represented the Father of his Country sitting in a bathrobe on a big block of stone. It was raised in 1843, having been cut in Italy in 1842. For more than fifty years it stood on the Capitol plaza, an incongruous feature.

The figure was moved to the Smithsonian Institution and at a cost of $10,000 restored. It was thought that the squabble over it had ended, but yesterday passersby discovered that Eliot Woods, superintendent of the Capitol building, was using the ten-ton pedestal as a corner stone for the new office building power plant. A great kick has been made, and the old block of marble, embellished with the legend "First in war," may yet be saved from such an ignoble end.

SIKES REFUSES TO GIVE OFFICE TO SUCCESSOR

Factory Inspector Invites Williams to Return When He Is Confirmed.

IS UPHELD BY LAWYERS

Incumbent Insists He Alone Is Qualified Until Senate Indorses Appointee.

State Factory Inspector Sikes, fortified by the opinion of several attorneys has refused to turn over the office to W. W. Williams of Sedalia, appointed by Gov. Hadley to succeed Mr. Sikes.

When Mr. Williams called at the Factory Inspector's office in the Liggett Building at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday to take charge he was informed by Mr. Sikes that his commission would not be recognized. Mr. Sikes invited him to return in two years, if he shall have been confirmed by the Senate, and the office would be surrendered to him.

Mr. Sikes is a Democrat and was appointed by former Gov. Folk. Mr. Williams is a Republican. The law requires the State Factory Inspector to be confirmed by the Senate before he can qualify for the office.

He Insists on Confirmation.

Mr. Sikes was informed by his lawyers that as Mr. Williams' appointment has not been confirmed by the Senate he cannot qualify legally for the office. Mr. Williams refused to say, after Mr. Sikes had refused to give up the office, what course he will pursue.

"I am the only legally qualified Factory Inspector," said Mr. Sikes to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Under the law I am authorized to hold office until my successor is duly qualified. As Mr. Williams' appointment has not been confirmed by the Senate, I am advised by my lawyers that he cannot qualify for the office. Under the circumstances, there is nothing for me to do but to refuse to recognize him as my successor.

"My term of office expired four days before the Senate adjourned, May 22. Gov. Hadley had time to make an appointment and send the name to the Senate.

Has Had No Word From Hadley.

"He waited until after the Senate adjourned, and, I am informed by the newspapers, then appointed Mr. Williams. Gov. Hadley has never sent me any word that he has named my successor. When Mr. Williams can show me that he has been confirmed by the Senate and is duly qualified for the office I shall take pleasure in turning it over to him, and giving him every assistance possible until he becomes familiar with its workings."

Mr. Williams expressed surprise when Mr. Sikes did not give up the office.

"I cannot say what I shall do," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "I am not ready to do any talking."

Deering to Be an Assistant.

Ben Deering, a former preacher, who has been editing Fred Essen's newspaper in Clayton and fighting prohibition, visited the office with Mr. Williams. He says he is to be chief assistant in the St. Louis office.

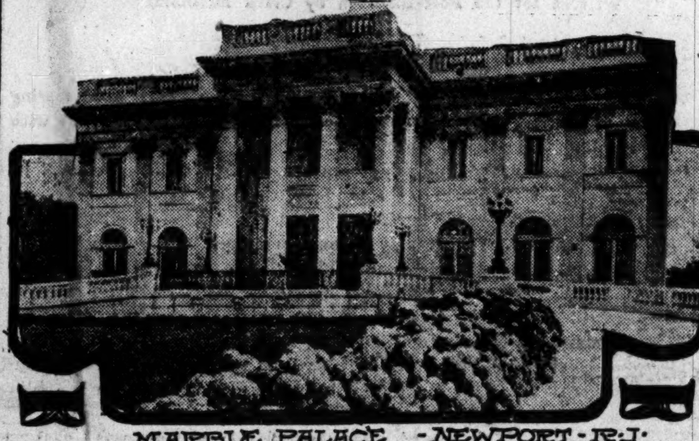
"Gov. Hadley has urged me to take a lot of different jobs," Deering said, "but this is the only one I care to take."

There are seven assistants and deputies in the factory inspector's office. Mr. Sikes instructed his deputy in Kansas City, James L. McQuay, to refuse to turn over the office to any assistant selected by Mr. Williams. The salary of the State factory inspector is $2000 a year, and the deputies are paid $1200.

The legitimate PAID circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its suburbs is greater than that of ALL other English Dailies COMBINED.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont to Give Active Aid to Suffragists

MRS-
O·H·P·
BELMENT



MARBLE PALACE -NEWPORT-R·I·

NEW YORK, June 1.

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT, mother of Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough, and for many years a leader of society in New York and Newport, is to give active aid to the cause of the suffragettes where heretofore she has limited her assistance to financial contributions. News of Mrs. Belmont's determination to become a suffragette was brought to New York yesterday by the Rev. Anna Shaw, who returned from the International Woman's Suffrage conference in London.

She was a guest of Mrs. Carrie Chapman-Catt there and Mrs. Shaw said Mrs. Belmont formally announced herself as a member of the suffragette ranks at a dinner given by the Duchess of Marlborough in the Duchess' town house.

LIVES IN HALL ROOM, PROMOTES VAST INTERESTS

A. P. Gillies Incorporates More Millions (on Paper) Than Col. Sellers.

ONCE A SOAP AGENT

His Imperial Building at Tacoma Was to Be Marvel of World.

NEW YORK, June 1.—In a modest hall room in the furnished rooming house at 115 Madison avenue, temporarily dwells A. P. Gillies, who has probably incorporated more millions on paper than Col. Sellers ever created in his dreams. Efforts to discover the real backer of the $750,000,000 Imperial Steel Corporation, chartered in Delaware Friday, brought the investigator to the threshold of Mr. Gillies' small hall room, but he promptly disavowed any connection with the $750,000,000 company.

Mr. Gillies intimated that he knew who was behind the enterprise.

"It's a Pittsburg crowd," he said. "The company is only a stab in the dark. I have just returned from Pittsburg, where I saw the steel crowd. I have just organized the Gillies Steel Corporation with a capital stock of $10,000,000. They are after my plant, but I am independent."

Friends of Mr. Gillies thought he might know something about the gigantic undertaking, because he has incorporated several "Imperial" companies—so many, in fact, they are known as "Gillies' Imperial enterprises." These companies once set the Pacific Coast in the vicinity of Tacoma, Wash., aflame with pride and hope, for they promised (on paper) to give that metropolis buildings, subways, commerce and such, the like of which has never been seen in the world.

Mr. Gillies is perfectly at ease talking about millions and of the interest in his undertaking of such men as J. P. Morgan, Shoemaker, Bates & Co. of 37 Wall street, Malcolm & Coombs of 100 Broadway and many others conspicuous in financial affairs.

Is Sued for $10,000.

Just how well he knows these magnates will be disclosed at the trial of a suit just brought against him for $10,000 by Gibson Arnoldi, a financial agent at 115 Broadway. Named as co-defendants in the suit are the Imperial Building Co. and Henry Hewitt Jr., one of the richest men in Tacoma.

According to Mr. Arnoldi, the originator of this giant among modern promotion schemes is A. P. Gillies, whose base of operations is at Tacoma, where he organized the Tacoma Construction Co., the Imperial Building Co., the Gillies Subway Terminal Co. and the Hewitt Dry Dock Corporation. Lastly, in New York, on Thursday of last week was organized the Gillies Steel Corporation, with a capital stock of $10,000,000 and an aggregate of $100,000,000.

None of these corporations, according to Mr. Arnoldi, has progressed beyond the paper stage, although he said, upon the representations of Gillies a large amount of capital had been subscribed and architects, contractors, steel men, railroad officials and financiers had spent time and money in finding out that no money had been subscribed or paid.

Mr. Gillies, according to himself, is a graduate of Edinburgh University, a civil engineer, a former lieutenant in charge of an engineer corps in the construction of the Cape to Cairo Railroad and associate of Cecil Rhodes in exploration of Rhodesia. Mr. Gillies, according to Mr. Arnoldi, is a former soap agent in Chicago.

It was because Mr. Arnoldi was made the New York financial agent of the Imperial Building Co. at a salary of $10,000 a year and 5 per cent commission that he is suing for that amount. He says he does not expect to get a dollar of it, but wants to vindicate himself.

Building to Be a Marvel.

The Imperial Building which Gillies was to erect in Tacoma was to be a marvel of marvels, twice as big as the Grand Central Depot in New York. Ocean steamships were to sail up to the door and transcontinental railroads were to enter the building through the Gillies subway. A section of the building was to be used for a hotel, larger than the Waldorf. Ocean and rail passenger traffic was to pass over two suspension bridges, each 600 feet long.

LIVING COST 5.2 PER CENT LESS IN 1908 THAN 1907

But Food Prices Were 36.9 Per Cent Higher Than in 1897—Lumber Decreased 9.4 Per Cent Last Year.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The cost of living was 5.2 per cent less in 1908 than in 1907, according to figures presented in a report by the Bureau of Labor. The estimates are based upon the prices of 258 representative staple articles.

It is stated the prices in 1908 were only slightly in advance of those in 1906. In 1907 food prices were the highest in 19 years.

As compared with 1907, the year of lowest prices during the 19-year period, the advance in 1908 was 36.9 per cent. As compared with the average for the 10 years, 1890 to 1899, the advance was 22.8 per cent.

The decline from the prices shown by the October, 1907, data continued without interruption, until August, 1908, with the exception of a slight advance in July.

Fuel and lighting decreased 3.1 per cent in 1908 from the 1907 cost; metals and implements decreased 12.6 per cent—which was the heaviest decline of any of the groups; lumber and building materials decreased 9.4 per cent.

Drugs and chemicals increased 7 per cent; house furnishing goods decreased 2.8 per cent and the miscellaneous group decreased 5.7 per cent.

The average wholesale price of raw commodities for 1908 was 5.9 per cent below that for 1907, and the average wholesale price of manufactured commodities for 1908 was 5 per cent below that for 1907.

Of the 258 articles included in the report the prices of 107 were at the highest point during the year in January, while only 20 articles attained their highest in December.

HIT BY CAR ON BRIDGE, OLD MAN IS NEAR DEATH

St. John's Hospital Patient Gasps That His Name Is Christian Wolfe.

Attendants at St. John's Hospital are trying to establish the identity of an aged man who was struck by a Compton car on the Eighteenth street bridge at 5:15 p. m. Monday. Tuesday morning he managed to gasp that his name is Charles Wolfe. He had no papers in his pocket that would further identify him.

He is believed to be dying. His left leg is broken, his skull is probably fractured, his scalp lacerated and his hands mangled.

Tries to Cross the Bridge.

The old man was walking along the footpath on the west side of the bridge and attempted to cross to the east side. There is no railing to prevent a pedestrian from entering upon the track where he crossed.

When he got on the track and saw the car bearing down upon him the old man tried to go back, and then he was struck by the car. Motorman Hickman, who was in charge of the car, reported that Wolfe seemed to be dazed and unable to get off the track.

Apparently Is Past 70 Years.

Wolfe was taken to the office of a physician on Park avenue, and later moved to St. John's Hospital at the request of the United Railways Co. He is apparently past 70 years of age, small and thin, and his arms are tanned to the elbows.

ROOSEVELT CRIES "BULLY" AT LAMPOONING IN A LOCAL MINSTREL SHOW IN NAIROBI

Topical Songs Told of His Work as Correspondent and His Opinion of Country.

NAIROBI, June 1.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt attended a performance of the "Nairobi Follies" Saturday night. The program was filled with skits on the Roosevelt expedition and his hunting feats after the manner of the Gridiron Club of Washington, D. C.

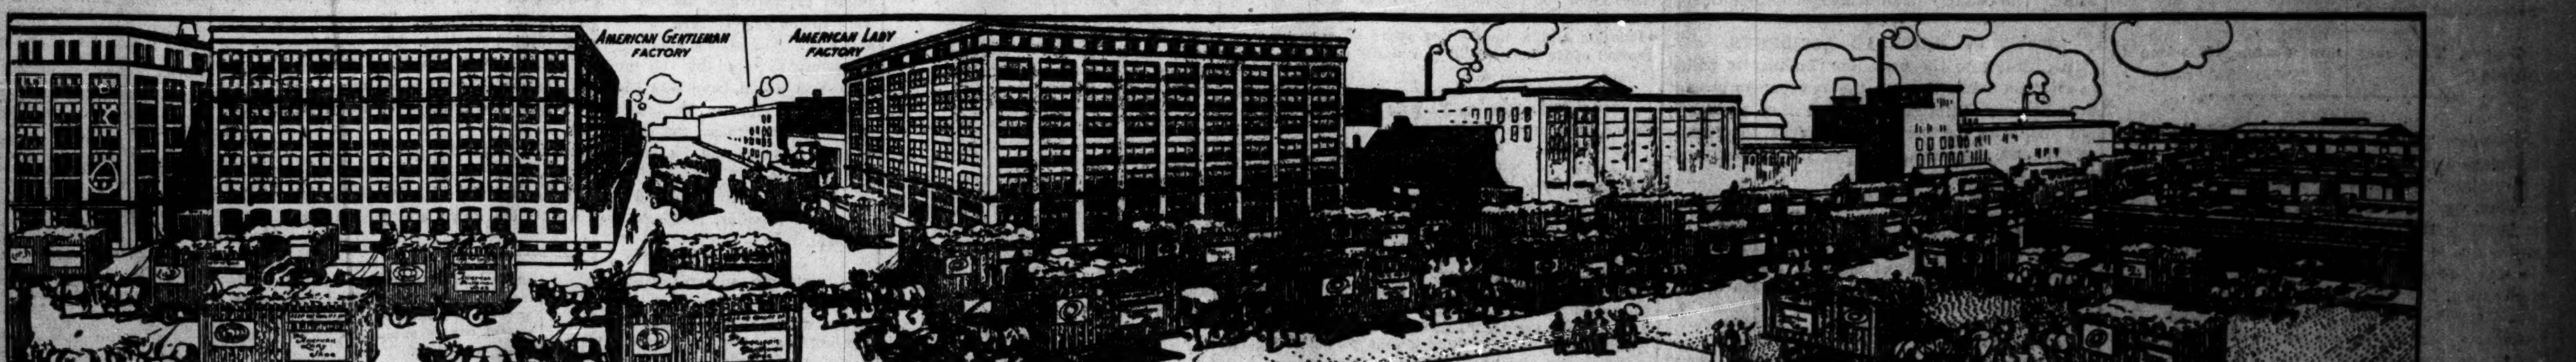
During the first part, which was a minstrel show, the performers guyed Mr. Roosevelt humorously. The second part was a sketch entitled "The Chase." It included a number of topical songs, which Mr. Roosevelt enjoyed greatly, especially one which described his powers as a reporter. The refrain to this song was:

Teddy sent his news on Tuesday,
Oh, 'tis nice to be polite,
But the New York papers printed it
On the previous Sunday night.

Another song which made Mr. Roosevelt cry out "Bully, that's bully!" had this as its refrain:

This country's bull, bull, bully;
I've enjoyed it full, full, fully;
For euchre is the best
Game found in the West,
The West that is wild, wool, woolly.

Col. Roosevelt has accepted an invitation for a public dinner here Aug. 2. The party will proceed to the Sotik country in a few days.



A Million Dollars for Soles—

The Hamilton, Brown Shoe Company has just purchased over $1,000,000 worth of sole leather! It will take over 200 cars to bring this enormous purchase of leather to St. Louis.
Over 89,000 cattle were required to produce the leather and 5515 cars were necessary to take the cattle to market. This is equivalent to one solid freight train 39 miles long.
These cattle, if placed in single file as close as they could walk, would make a herd 137 miles long.
If one should undertake to drive them into a pasture through a single gate it would take six days—from 6 in the morning until 6 at night—to get them all through.
It will take 600 wagons, such as those in this picture, all loaded to the guards, to haul this leather to the Hamilton, Brown factories, where it will make the soles of over seven million shoes.
This leather is only for soles—millions of dollars must also be invested in leather for the uppers of these seven million shoes. Thus, you see what it means to be "The Largest Purchasers of Leather in the World."
Then figure that the Hamilton, Brown factories have a street frontage over half a mile long, and that over 5500 workers are employed in making shoes in these factories, and that they receive over two and a half million dollars every year in wages and support over 20,000 people, and you will realize what it means to be "The Largest Manufacturers of Shoes in the World."
The Hamilton, Brown Shoe Company is also St. Louis' greatest industry, and, according to the list of taxpayers recently published in the St. Louis papers, actually pays nearly twice as much taxes as all other St. Louis Shoe houses combined.
The ability to purchase such enormous quantities of leather at one time in anticipation of an advance in the price of leather (since realized) and the economy in manufacturing on such a large scale, have enabled the Hamilton, Brown Shoe Co. to make "the best shoes for the money," and to adhere permanently to

THE COLLINS CASE.

A peculiar use of the parole system is brought to light in the case of "Johnny" Collins, under arrest on a charge of robbery. Collins was sentenced to the penitentiary for robbery under a plea of guilty, May 3, but was paroled on the recommendation of Circuit Attorney Jones.

The parole is usually given first offenders or others, for reformatory purposes, but, according to the Circuit Attorney, there was no expectation of reform in the case of Collins, a police character, an associate of thieves, who had been arrest many times on suspicion or charges of robbery. The parole was granted to induce Collins to plead guilty and in the expectation that he would offend again when he could be sent to the penitentiary on his previous plea, without the cost or risk of trial.

Detective Smythe, who arrested Collins on the latest charge, says the latter asserted that he could not be sent to the penitentiary because he had paid money for immunity. That an attempt was made to influence the Circuit Attorney's office is admitted.

We do not believe it wise or safe to use the parole for any purpose except that of reform. The system is not intended as a means of punishing hardened criminals who are turned loose under pleas of guilty to commit another crime. Such offenders ought to be tried and, if possible, convicted. Their records are legitimate supplements of other testimony. In this particular case there should be a thorough sifting of the reports that money was used to bring influence to bear upon any officer of the law. If money has been paid under the impression that it will command influence effective at any point in the administration of justice, the facts should be brought out.

MIDNIGHT SOPHISTRIES.

The London policemen, or Bobbies, as they are called over there, have recently become worn and haggard in appearance. The Sketch deploring this falling off in pulchritude attributes it to "the lack of steak and midnight sophistries."

It turns out that Bobby does not eat enough; for what reason we know not. But instead of indulging in beefsteak he has taken to beer. Overwork and loss of sleep conspire with this diet to weaken his system and impair his good looks.

But what are midnight sophistries? And why does Bobby need fallacies of any kind, midnight or midday? If he needs them, of course he ought to have them. But what are they? Do our policemen sustain their soldierly appearance on midnight sophistries?

BUNTING.

President Taft does not like the bunt. He wants ballplayers to "hit it out;" says that he is most entertained by games in which there is "plenty of slugging." He commented contemptuously upon a bunt in the Pittsburg-Chicago game on Saturday and answered Secretary Knox's defense that it was scientific baseball with an impatient "I don't care; I don't like it." The legal mind should readily recognize the subtlety of bunting. It is a device born of conscious weakness, a canny trick that enables a player to win a base or advance a player when his opponent's defense is too strong for direct attack.

A bunt is a technicality. He who bunts pettifogs. If he gains a base or his teammates advance neither he nor they are credited with earned progress. If the bunting team wins it gains credit in the percentage column comparable to the victory of a lawyer who triumphs because a clerk typist left the article the out of an indictment or a juror spelled first f-u-s-t.

Equally true, it may be, a bunt is diplomacy. He who bunts and gets away with it may be on base when a slugger bats it out into the tall grass.

We bunted when we financed the Panama secession from Colombia and gained the canal zone. We might have slugged Colombia off the map without gaining greater advantage. Spain tried to bunt when she nearly embroiled us with Germany. The Chicago packers got away with their bunt when they secured the immunity bath decision, and the Standard Oil Co. was equally successful in convincing Federal judges it did not know the freight rate from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis.

It was a big nature, a clean fighting man who expressed his disapproval of the shyster's device. He expressed tersely the heart and soul of all men who play the game heartily, of men who rise in their places and yell with power when the bat cracks on the ball for a clean single. Partisans snigger meanly when a man of their side bunts; they cheer gloriously when he slugs it out.

TAFT AT GETTYSBURG.

Mr. Taft's speech at Gettysburg might have been happier and it might have been pitched in a higher key.

Reducing the address to its simplest terms, about all the President had to say was that the regular army had rendered great service to the nation; that the army was larger than it had ever been before, but that it was not too large and the force should not be reduced. Surely, Gettysburg might have inspired a loftier message than this.

Not that we are disposed to quarrel with Mr. Taft's tribute to the regular army. Its work in the Civil War has never been properly appreciated by the country as a whole, and even historians have rendered no overflowing measure of justice to the regulars who were afterward to be submerged by the volunteers. In particular there has been no adequate recognition of the loyalty of the rank and file. Lincoln himself is authority for the statement that although scores of army and navy officers whom the Government educated and trained went over to the enemy, not one private soldier in the regular army and not one sailor in the navy swerved in his allegiance to the flag. They were the nucleus around which the forces were rallied that finally crushed the rebellion.

All this is well enough, and nobody should begrudge the army any of the compliments that Mr. Taft paid to it; but inasmuch as nobody is seriously proposing to reduce the size of the country's military forces, the President's argument against a mythical peril could have been left for another occasion. The trite and hackneyed repetitions of the Roosevelt gospel of "our position as a world power," might better have been omitted. We have been a world power ever since the Declaration of Independence. We were a world power when the regular army was composed of the 80 men to whom Mr. Taft referred yesterday. We shall continue to be a world power, whether the size of the army is increased or diminished.

The Republic is facing no grave dangers from without. Never since Yorktown has its existence been threatened by a foreign foe. What real dangers confront it are from within. The army can be of little assistance in the serious business of establishing equal justice, dethroning privilege, curbing plutocracy, destroying the evil alliance between corrupt corporations and corrupt politics and maintaining the Republic as a Republic of opportunity to rich and poor alike. Could it have been inappropriate for the President of the United States in a speech on the battlefield of Gettysburg to emphasize these elemental facts upon which the future depends?

Our esteemed contemporary the Republic urges so many objections to the free bridge plans that it seems only the elimination of the bridge will satisfy it.

QUARRY DEATH TRAPS.

A woman and two boys drowned in St. Louis quarries in one day is a record not to be proud of in a metropolitan city. The woman fell to her death over a steep bank. The boys slipped off an improvised raft into 35 feet of water. Their bodies were found, but it is said that the body of a boy who was drowned in this deep quarry some time ago has never been recovered.

The worked quarry within the city limits is an anchronism, an eyesore, and frequently a menace to life and limb. But the abandoned quarry is a death trap. It gets full of water, luring boys to play on or in its depths. A misstep almost invariably results in drowning, and the list of deaths from this cause alone in St. Louis is a long one.

The city is morally responsible for these deaths, as long as it neglects to compel quarry owners to make the quarry ponds safe and insure the safety of pedestrians by fencing wherever this is needed. The city has enough perils without the quarry death traps.

NEWS OF RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

In a notice to the press announcing its policy to give the public through the newspapers prompt and accurate information concerning accidents, and detailing the instructions issued to officials to this end, the management of the Pennsylvania Railroad says:

> The support of the newspapers is necessary in order to secure accuracy in the published reports of accidents. The end to be achieved is so eminently desirable, from the points of view of the public, the press, and the company, that it is believed that the papers may be relied upon to instruct their representatives to co-operate with the railroad company in seeing to it that facts only are printed.

It is unnecessary for the railroad management to urge the support and co-operation of the press in giving full and accurate information of railroad accidents, or to suggest that the newspapers see that facts only are published. The newspapers want only the facts—full and accurate information—about railroad accidents to satisfy the public demand. The trouble has been heretofore that the railroads have practically denied the right of the newspapers and the public to obtain the facts. They have made it difficult for the newspapers to obtain information, treating accidents as private and not public concerns. As a consequence, newspapers have found it difficult to obtain the facts or to verify what facts they obtained. They have had to meet the just public demand for the facts as best they could with the result that they were compelled to print meager reports or rely upon information gathered from insufficient sources.

The Pennsylvania's recognition of the right of the public and of the newspapers as the mediums of publicity, to prompt and accurate information concerning accidents is a wise policy. Other railroads should follow its good example. The railroads have only to carry out this policy in good faith, to win the confidence of the newspapers in the promptness and accuracy of the information supplied, to obtain the heartiest newspaper co-operation.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Negro's Opportunity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Regarding the Georgia railroad strike and the negro firemen, I notice an editorial in Sunday's Post-Dispatch in which you ask is the negro to be continually pushed down until he is allowed to do nothing but such work as the white man will not do? I say, give the negro a chance to make a living, but there is one thing every intelligent man must acknowledge and that is that the white man is superior to the negro on any proposition you may take him on. We have never heard of a negro making any great discovery or invention of note, or distinguishing himself in any way, with the exception of Booker Washington, perhaps. Railroad engineers are always recruited from the firemen's ranks, so why not use men for firemen fit to fill these responsible positions? Why is it that these railroad officials never take a negro into the office with them as clerk or bookkeeper or stenographer? You never heard of them remembering the poor negro when it comes to filling these positions, yet it requires no more brains to be a clerk than it does to be a fireman; no more to be a claim agent or bookkeeper than a locomotive engineer.

Who Should Be Boss?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am thinking of getting married, and in talking it over with the young man who is my intended, he asked me point blank whether I wanted to be boss when we were married, or wished him to be. I said, of course, I would like to be boss. He looked surprised, but said: "All right; I suppose we'll get along." Do you think he meant it, or will he really expect to boss things himself when it's all over?

Teachers Should Be Sympathetic.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am happy to say there are many superior teachers found in our city schools, but alas! there are also many who have outlived their day of usefulness in the schoolroom. They have grown morbid and sour. They see no beauty in child life. They never have a cheerful word of greeting for one of these bubbling spirits. They live in the dead past. There is a cry going up from the mothers all over our city asking that these old fossils be removed. Give them a vacation, send them to Europe on a pleasure trip, retire them on a pension. Please do something to rid our schools of these rusty-jointed cranks. Is not the welfare of forty or fifty of the bright, wideawake little treasures of more importance than bread and butter for one of these irritable, nervous creatures? They have my heartfelt sympathy. Let not our schools be a charity institution, but give us teachers that love children and feel a keen interest in the work.

"ANXIOUS."

The Sun an Electric Light.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

There has been much speculation and disputing in the years that have passed as to what the sun is really composed of and many theories have from time to time been set forth, but with no satisfactory solution of the problem. Various metals and minerals have been suggested, but all have had to be abandoned for the reason that the tremendous heat in and around the center of the sun is so great that any substance of that kind would be immediately consumed by coming into contact with its power. After going over all the ground it would appear that electricity is the only theory that would be able to stand for any length of time the great heat of such a fire, and if we consider the question from that standpoint we may be able to solve the problem. We are all well aware of the fact that the sun and all our planets are enveloped in an unlimited, exhaustless current of electricity and the sun seems to be the center of that mighty influence and almost as a natural consequence the focusing of such a large current of electricity would produce just such a condition as we see every day, an immense electric light. In fact, everything we have learned about electricity proves this point; also the motion and circuit of the earth and all the other planets are certainly in accord with the idea, for not only the traveling of these bodies around the sun in their orbits, but their daily revolutions indicate that they are all controlled by their own central focus of electrical power. There is also another very important point that must be taken into consideration and that is, where is the source of supply that keeps such an immense conflagration in operation? There is no power or source of supply outside of electricity that would be able to furnish that supply for a single day, to say nothing of millions of years, but when we look to electricity, we see a force strong enough to furnish supply enough for all the sun unlimited space could contain.

Practical Prohibition.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If the liquor traffic is not stopped by law, and I don't believe it ever can be entirely, there is a remedy which every man can take into his own hands. There is no law or influence in this land which can make a man drink unless he wants to. Every true man is master of himself. If you are master of yourself then you can shun these evil habits. You can have prohibition all the time if you want it. This is practical prohibition, which can never fail. My friend, do you want prohibition in your life and in your home? Then, my Lord, it is up to you!

NO MORE AMERICAN CHILDREN?

From the New York World.

Alfred Mosely, the distinguished British educator and economist, finds that the race of children is extinct in America.

We have "brushed the bloom of natural childishness," and instead of children there are only little men and little women, 4-year-old despots who are walking editions of the Declaration of Independence and who have no respect, nor reverence, for anything human or divine. The "normal" American boy is "a cute, smart, nervous, business manikin."

Even savages, Mr. Mosely asserts, command greater respect from their offspring than do American fathers and mothers. He attributes these conditions of juvenile precocity to a deficiency of nurseries and children's play-rooms in American homes and to a too early association of the interests of parent and child.

PRESSAGENTING.

From the New York Evening Post.

The times change, and with them the press agent. When bicycles were new, he heralded Knocker's Hat awheel. When the automobile appeared, every breakfast food and lobster supper actress straightway took an airing behind a chauffeur. But what shall the press agent now do? The automobile is as common as a dray. The phonograph has cried "wolf!" too often, and, furthermore, it now sings so humanly that the passerby will not halt to see who is being strangled.

NEIGHBORLY DISCOURTESY.

From the New York Times.

Neighboring cities of Seattle are just a little jealous of the advertisement she is getting. That is human, and, perhaps, not unwholesome. In Tacoma two "sidewalk conversationalists" of the vaudeville stage made a great hit with this bit of colloquy:

"Are you going to the Seattle Fair?"
"Naw," (spoken derisively.)
"Well, somebody ought to go."

JUST A MINUTE FOR VERSE AND HUMOR

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams

AFRICAN NIGHTS.

BWANA TUMBO tried to write, but there were too many lions roaring around the camp, and he presently came out and sat by the fire with Cunningham and Selous.

"How many lions would you say there are in that chorus, Selous?" he asked.

The great hunter shook his head.

"No telling," he said. "There may be anywhere from ten to five hundred. Anything beyond ten would not be appreciable. We had a very laughable illustration of that some years ago down on the Zambesi. A Russian grand duke had engaged me to take him into that country. If you know anything about the Russian idea of big game hunting, it is not necessary to tell you that his royal bomblets was prepared to blow into a fine Russian curry anything he might see. I suppose the disposition to blow something up is a Slav characteristic.

"Well, the inevitable happened. The imperial sportsman was charged by a rhino. Failing to stop the brute with his rifle, he dipped into his pocket, and began throwing bombs. About the third cast he hit the quarry between the eyes with a half-pint ball of something like lyddite. It was mince for the rhino, and we picked the grand duke up with a piece of iron driven into one of his lungs and both legs broken. We camped there until he recovered. The lions serenaded us every night, and during his convalescence the son of Romanoff plotted their destruction. A 50-foot zone within a stone's throw of camp was mined with the most damnable collection of petards ever put under ground. The grand duke pushed the button one night when it seemed that every lion along that reach of the Zambesi must be sitting on one of our mines baying the Afric moon. The total bag was eight Ashanti camp carriers, four horses, one Boer wagon driver and four lions. We searched high and low, but not another lion fell in the cataclysm planned for the destruction of hundreds. It was ridiculous to think that four lions had done all of that roaring, but we were forced to believe it. Escape was impossible.

"The sequel occurred a month later. The grand duke had in his outfit a small mortar. This was for shelling thickets or dropping something hot among the crocodiles that bask on the sandbars. It had not been fired, but one night a couple of lions roared pretty persistently just back of the camp, and his august explosiveness decided to drop one on them. As far as we knew, lions were comparatively rare in that part of the continent. The bomb rose about half a mile and struck about 200 yards behind the tent. The explosion was immediately followed by the most frightful uproar that ever assaulted mortal ear. You would have supposed that the shot had dropped into a zoo. Death wails arose from every bush and at least a dozen singed and terrified lions dashed right through the camp."

"How many did he get?" asked Cunningham.

"Forty-nine."

"And Ananias, hearing these words, fell down and gave up the ghost," he said.

ODE TO A STRAW HAT.

You none too stable flyabout,
How many races we shall run
Ere autumn takes the blister out
Of our midcontinental sun?

How many times shall some fell wind
Remove you from my hapless head
And leave me plodding on behind
Repeating what the pirate said?

The pirate said—it is to scoff!
Were all the pirates great and small
Opposed to me, and you blew off,
A fig, my hearty, for them all!

How many puddles you shall skirt,
And what wheels, legs and pools blow through,
And how to dignity's great hurt
Shall I wheeze sadly after you?

Alas! it is the luck of man
To be so far by custom led
That he may wear no other than
The wind's pet plaything on his head.

APPEAL TO PATRIOTISM.

After all the good work we have done to correct the impression that St. Louis is the hot city it is sometimes said to be, nothing could be more unfortunate than that our two morning newspapers should clinch just as the summer opens.

Locally it is well known that the temperature has nothing to do with it, but outside of St. Louis the immediate conclusion will be that it is already so hot here that we are all out of humor with heat and hives. The tendency of very hot weather to make people peevish is notorious, and the country at large will be sure to attribute the long editorials in which our morning contemporaries are lambasting each other to this common cause. Of peculiarly local causes like a long-standing ambition to compel the other paper to admit that it is a liar the outside world knows nothing and of course could not be expected to know anything.

If we are cool in St. Louis during the summer months, as we want the country to believe, let us at least appear to be—lest in the eventual cataclysm the nation lose patience and conclude we are all liars.

FIZ!

When Congress contemplates increasing the duty on lemons by half cent a pound it merits the protest of everyone believing that lemonade constitutes the best ichor in [illegible].

We are essentially a lemonade nation. A few adults drink beer and booze, but all the children drink lemonade, and we can lick, outspend, outrun or outwit the people of any country whose children drink anything else.

Everyone remembers when the duty on lemons went up to the present rate of one cent a pound. Lemonade, which had always been made in barrels, began to appear at picnics in jugs. Only the extremely wealthy Sunday schools could continue to serve it in barrels. The effect of another half-cent of duty is easily foreseen. It will become a bottled drink, together with soda-water, root beer, gingerale and the effervescents with cocaine in them.

What nations eat and drink in time determines the history of the world. Where does our unthinking Congress wish us to fetch up?

The court decision that automobiles running into each other have no redress is a fair commentary upon the widespread esteem in which these carriers are held by persons without any.

HOME HINTS.

Veal Loaf.

TAKE one pound of veal and one pound of pork and mince up fine. Then soak one-half pound of bread crumbs in milk and squeeze out, mixing three eggs well with it. Now add this to the meat and season well with salt, pepper and a little sage, if liked. Grease a baking pan well, put in the loaf, and bake in an oven, not too hot.

Stewed Chicken.

LAY the disjointed chicken compactly in a porcelain or granite pot, sprinkle baking soda the size of a navy bean over the chicken. Cover with boiling water and allow it to come to the boiling point quickly. Pour off the water and scum, and again cover with boiling water, and allow to simmer till tender; then season and thicken the broth for a cream gravy. This method will overcome any bad taste and odor.

Beef Burrs.

FOR a family of four: Get two pounds of round steak about one inch thick and pound out flat; then cut into strips two inches thick and six inches long. Make a dressing of stale bread, one egg, one onion, a small piece of butter, sage, salt and pepper to taste. Spread this dressing on strips of meat, roll up and pin each of the burrs with toothpicks so as to hold them together firmly so they will look like little roasts. Put butter and lard in a kettle and brown nicely on both sides, then add water enough to cover. Simmer for one hour and a half. Enough dressing will boil out to make a nice brown gravy.

VERSE FASHIONS.

OH! poet stay your pen! We've heard so much
Of jewels, gems and jessamine before,
They've all been written of with lighter touch
By Tommy Moore!
Love, death, day, night, and dying desolation
Are not in these days quite an innovation!

One can't imagine quite why violets blow
In just the same old style you always sing,
Or why your lines forever seem to flow
With birds in spring!
No doubt they chirp in jocund jubilations,
But give us, pray, original creations!

For when the poet annually sings
A song, that dates back many and many a year,
It's really one of the absurdest things
The world can hear!
Still you go on with fleeting breath, and willows,
The rustling leaves, woods, whispers, surging billows!

Just at this time you're bound to be a slave
To daisy, dandelion and buttercup;
It doesn't matter how the critics rave,
And cut you up!
Be warned! If for Parnassus' heights you're trying,
Quit verse, and try the latest fashion—flying!

SUNDAY READING

HERE is the story of David and Goliath as it is said to have been recently told by the Rev. Billy Sunday, with appropriate gestures, to a rapt congregation of 8000:

"And so David's pa comes up to him where he was working in the field and says: 'Dave, better go up to the house. Your ma's anxious about the other boys fighting in the army, hasn't heard from them by phone or anything, and she'd like you should look them up.' So Dave hops on a trolley and hikes to the front, and stays there with his brothers overnight.

"In the morning old Goliath comes out in front of the Philistines and dares the Israelites to fight him.

"'Who's that big stiff making all the big talk out there?' asks Dave.

"'Why, that's the head cheese, the big noise,' says his brothers.

"'Why don't some one soak him one?' asks Dave.

"'We've all got cold feet,' says the Israelites.

"'You fellows make me tired,' says Dave, and he pikes out to the brook, gets four pebbles in his shepherd's sack, slams one at Goliath, and soaks him in the coco between the lamps. Goliath goes to the mat, takes the count, and Dave pokes him in the slats, chops off his block, and the whole Philistine gang skidooed."—Harper's Weekly.

LOVE LETTERS OF THOMAS CARLYLE TO JANE WELSH.

Records of His Love for the Woman He Wed Now Published for the First Time.

By ALEXANDER CARLYLE.

THE Love Letters of Thomas Carlyle and Jane Welsh have been given to the world by Alexander Carlyle. The correspondence covers the period from June, 1821, when Carlyle first met Jane Welsh, down to the time of their marriage in 1826. So soon as January, 1822, Carlyle declared his love, but Jane insisted on friendship only. Not until three years later would she consider herself affianced, but in the interim they were the dearest of friends—in divers languages, such endearments as "Meine eigene" and "Ich kuesse dich zehntausendmal" being rendered in the original order to put the lady's mother off the scent. Almost to the end of their courtship Jane tried to persuade herself that her passion for Carlyle was a purely intellectual passion. At the beginning of their intimacy, indeed, the possibility of marriage with Carlyle hardly occurred to her. For the sage, for all his genius, was poor and humbly born, and all too deficient in those Byronic graces, which the much-sought belle of Haddington admired. He was apt to be boorish sometimes, too, and his "eternal" (Jane's favorite adjective) Scots accent never ceased to jar upon her ears. She had lovers in plenty, of course, and never failed to give Carlyle the fullest details of their courting. Sometimes he laughed with her; but once, in ill-health, tired from over-study and sick with long waiting for Jane and fame, he wrote in answer to her raillery:

> O Jane, Jane! Your half-jesting enumeration of your wooers does anything but make me laugh. A thousand and a thousand times have I thought the same thing in deepest earnest. That you have the power of making many good matches is no secret to me; nay, it would be a piece of news for me to learn that I am not the very worst you ever thought of. And it is reasonable and right that you should be concerned for your future establishment. Look round with calm eyes on the persons you mention or may hereafter so mention, and if there is anyone among them whose Wife you had rather be—I do not mean whom you love better than me—but whose Wife, all things considered, you had rather be than mine, then I call upon you, I your Brother and Husband and friend through every fortune, to accept that man and leave me to my destiny.

But, by now, for all she kept her little train of lovers, Jane's heart was irrevocably Carlyle's.

> Look cross at me, reproach me, even whip me, if you have the heart; your next kiss will make amends for all. But if you love me, cease, I beseech you, to make me offers of freedom; for this is an outrage which I find it not easy to forgive, she replies, and Carlyle, overwhelmed by his "angel's" generosity, bows his head and begs her to forgive him.

There never was nor will be a more devoted lover than Carlyle. Himself a martyr to dyspepsia, he tortured himself when he heard that her headaches, which continued through life and did much to bring about the unhappiness in Chelsea, had made her ill.

> O my Darling, the bare idea of miseries that might too easily occur fills my whole soul with darkness! Never till I had lost thee should I know how deep and abiding was thy dwelling in my heart. But it must not and shall not be. O, for your love of me, take thought of these things! Be careful, sedulous, scrupulous about your safety; for it is mine too. Do you walk daily? Every day? There is no drug or doctoring in the whole Pharmacopoeia that is worth a pin without this. Promise me that you will observe it, tell me that you are well, and I shall be at ease.

Carlyle's last letter to his Jane before their marriage is, perhaps, the most beautiful ever written:

> My own true Wife! I trust in God I shall love thee well; that thou shalt find a home for thy fair soul in my bosom; that my arms may encompass thee about from the afflictions of existence, and the heart thou hast believed in so nobly may prove no refuge of lies! I swear it will break my heart if I make thee unhappy. And yet I am a perverse mortal to deal with, and the best resolutions make shipwreck in the sea of practice; but thou must be a very good Wife, and I shall be a very good Husband; and our souls shall have no secret from each other and we live indivisible and one, poor or rich as it shall please Heaven, but more blessed in each other's love and goodness than any other Pair—and her reply hardly less so:

> It is now five years since we first met—five blessed years! During all that period my opinion of you has never wavered, but gone on deliberately rising to a higher and higher degree of regard; and (what, perhaps, is still more convincing of its well-groundedness) in the seventeen months that I have held myself your affianced Wife, I have never for a single instant doubted the wisdom of my choice. Nor has your attachment proved itself less steadfast than mine, though far more unaccountable. For you have loved me, not in blindness of my thousand faults, but in spite of them; for the sake of my one redeeming grace, the faith that is in me.

What a picture of sympathetic humanity at its highest! The later image of a crusty "Sage of Chelsea" fades into obscurity before this flood of radiant revelation.

If, as some poet has said, all life is music, the tramp must have been set to ragtime.

What a comfort it would be if the wolf at the door could be trained to chew up a few duns as they arrive!

There was a time when a hundred thousand dollars seemed like a good deal of money, and, come to think of it, it seems so yet.

It is not so much the love of money, but the inordinate desire of its possessors to get rid of it, that is at the root of many latter-day evils.—Harper's Weekly.

HOW YOUTH PROPOSES

The Avowal of Love by One Who Has Had No Experience, Exposed for the Post-Dispatch

By ETHEL LLOYD PATTERSON

"AWFULLY fine night," murmured the Boy.

"I'm just crazy over moonlight!" sighed the Girl.

There was a pause, smitten by the steady clack of the horse's hoofs as they struck through to stones in the dusty road. A moon moth, blundering from the shadow of a lilac bush, struck the Girl's cheek a soft, quick blow, and fell, clinging to the lace at her throat.

"Don't be frightened; I'll get him!" reassured the Boy. He changed both the reins to his left hand and caught the quivering insect by its wings; then, leaning far over the side of the buggy, flung it once more upon its way.

The Girl's heart beat for his bravery. Her eyes, raised to his for a moment, flashed a gleam through the shadow of their lashes.

"Your hands are like that—fluttering and soft and sort of helpless," said the Boy; then, caught to silence by the sudden lump in his throat, he swallowed hard and fixed his gaze steadily ahead.

The Girl did not move nor answer. She seemed scarcely to breathe. The horse plodded on through the moist sweetness of the August night.

Presently the Boy glanced at the girl.

"Not mad, are you?" he asked.

No answer.

"Aw, look at me!" urged the Boy, and nudged her with his elbow.

She turned and raised her face slowly, but not her eyes. Her downcast lids still cast lines of exaggerated and untrue sadness beneath them.

The Boy forgot the reins in his hand and the lump in his throat.

"Aw, you're awful sweet—so sweet!" he said huskily. "You're so awful sweet! I want you so! Oh, I want you so!"—then closer—"Kiss me, sweet!" he pleaded. "Aw, kiss me!"

The reins slid unheeded to the dashboard, and the horse stopped patiently with drooping ears.

The Boy caught the Girl's chin in the hollow of his hand and kissed her cool, unanswering lips—once.

It was enough. Her hands flew to his chest, palms outward, thrusting him from her.

"Don't!" the Girl panted. "You mustn't! Oh, don't!"

"Why not?" begged the boy. "Please, please! I love you!"

The Girl shook her head at him slowly.

"I don't quite understand myself," she said, "but you mustn't. Never again."

And the horse moved forward once more down the silvered way of the moonlit road.

Proved.

BROWNS ON WAY EAST TO BEGIN CAMPAIGN THERE WITH A CLUB SADLY CRIPPLED ROGER AND HIS MEN CHEERED AT PITTSBURG FOR GAME BATTLES EVEN THOUGH THE TEAM LOST SPORT

BROWNS WEAK TO FACE HARD EASTERN TRIP

Stone and Hoffman Still Out, Stephens Ill and Dinneen Not Ready, Is the Situation Tuesday

CLEVELAND, O., June 1.

MANAGER McALEER expects his two demon batsmen, Hoffman and Stone, to get into the game in the near future. He even goes so far as to say that Hoffman may play in the first New York game. Danny's ankle, however, appears to be badly swollen, and Danny himself thinks it may be a week before he gets back into the game. Stone will need three or more days on the bench. Hoffman was in uniform Monday, but Stone helped Waddell on the gates.

McAleer thought at first, Monday night, that he would be compelled to leave Catcher Stephens behind when the Browns departed at 2:40 a. m. Tuesday for New York. Jimmy was taken sick on the way here from St. Louis, and while his teammates were battling with the Naps at League Park, he was stretched out in bed, requiring the attendance of a physician. His bowels are affected, but late Monday the doctor gave permission to have him removed to New York.

"Dode" Criss gave a splendid exhibition of what to do with a little stuff in Monday morning's game. "Dode" apparently had nothing but a change of pace and the ability to keep the ball on the outside corner of the plate, and this was enough to win the game as, when men were on bases, the Naps could do but little with him. Up to the eighth inning he either made the Naps hit puny grounders to the infield, or pop the ball into the air.

When Criss' name was put up on the scoreboard some misguided one shouted: "McAleer will win one. Cleveland will win the other, so as to draw a crowd." It was always thus. Someone will bob up with some insinuation against the integrity of the game.

In addition to keeping Cleveland's hits scattered, Criss made a near-home-run in the fourth inning, when he lifted the ball against the right-field fence. A few feet higher and it would have dropped over into Lexington avenue. After that Rhoades made him look cheap, striking him out twice, once with his famous sneak ball.

The Cleveland outfielders seem to have got next to the fact that Tom Jones now hits to right center and Goode and Hinchman stood almost close enough together Monday to shake hands when Tom went to bat. As a result Tom was robbed of at least three two-baggers, as Hinchman never had to stir for three of his line drives to right center.

The Browns will arrive in New York at 5 p. m. this afternoon. McAleer intends to open up with Powell against the Yankees, following with Waddell.

"If we can break even with Hoffman and Stone out of the game," said McAleer late Monday night, "I will be satisfied, for I know the team will do better than that as soon as they get back in again. Griggs and McAleese are doing well, but we need Stone's and Hoffman's hits. Talking hard luck may be an old story, but it will have to be admitted that taking a club's two best batters out at the same time hurts a lot. But we are going to give those Eastern teams a battle, just the same. The Rube is great, just now, and he will make monkeys out of New York and Boston."

"I never felt better in my life," said Bill Dinneen, prior to yesterday's game. "My arm is in great shape. I have not pitched a game since I worked against Cleveland the opening week of the season, and I guess I am due to show something."

But for Lajoie, Dinneen might have got away with it at that, but Larry has it in for Dinneen ever since the latter beat the Naps and killed their chances for the pennant, last fall. Not this season has he hit the ball more viciously than he did Monday afternoon. And a single, two doubles and a triple were the results of his labor.

Young Donohue Quits.

LAWRENCE, Mass., June 1.—Young Donohue quit to Billy Clark as cold as ever one man quit to another last night in the second round of what was to have been a 12-round bout at the Unity Cycle Club. Donohue had Clark down for the count three times in the first round and only the bell saved the latter. In the second round Clark began to come back and was getting to Donohue and evening up matters, when the latter turned to his corner and walked away.

Frank Klaus Victor.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—Frank Klaus of Pittsburg had all the better of the argument last night with Jack Fitzgerald of this city at the West End A. C. The visitor completely outclassed his opponent in every round, but could not get in the finishing touch.

CELT WILL BE STRONG FAVORITE IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, June 1.—Celt, the James R. Keene race horse which has been liberally supported for the Brooklyn handicap to be run Thursday, had his final trial for the big race Monday at the Sheepshead Bay track.

With his regular exercise boy up and carrying about 130 pounds, he ran the mile and a quarter under a strong pull in 2:07 3-5. On this performance racing men believe that Celt will be a heavy odds-on favorite when the bugle blows for the big handicap.

Easy for Dr. Roller.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 1.—Dr. B. F. Roller won a handicap wrestling match here Monday night, throwing Leo Pardello and Jim Galvin in straight falls with no intermission. Pardello was thrown in 28 minutes and Galvin in 11.

WARM WEATHER BOWLING GAME TWICE AS HOT

Junior Tenpins, Affected by Star Rollers, Guaranteed to Develop Incandescent State.

With summer weather prevailing it would seem that the game of tenpins in St. Louis would be almost dead, but the new game junior tenpins has taken a great hold on all of the local expert bowlers who almost any afternoon can be found trying their luck at the new game.

In the junior game the pins are merely smaller and the balls smaller. As in tenpins, only two balls are allowed for each frame. In junior tenpins a game of anything over 100 is rated good. Duck pins, candle pins and rubber necks are altogether different from the new game. It is the first small ball game for which the small, hard rubber ball has been used.

Some of the bowlers prefer to use the small wooden balls and not a few of the bowlers have secured the small Mineralite spheres for their own exclusive use.

Charles Barker of the Cabannes, Yerkes of the Marquettes, Wilder of the Cabannes, Gilhuly of the Railroad League, Al Bell, Joe Uhrig and numerous other well-known local bowlers have taken up the game and instead of tenpins can be found bowling regularly.

Because of the speed necessary to get a good score the game is really more strenuous than tenpins and causes the men who are bowling to become about twice as warm. The small ball game is supposed to be a summer contest. It is certainly not a game for warm weather, but it seems to have taken quite a hold on the fancies of local bowlers. The new game is also said to hurt a good tenpin bowler, inasmuch as after rolling the small balls it takes him at least a couple of weeks of steady rolling before he is able to control one of the 15-pound balls used for the regular tenpin game.

LOCAL DISTANCE MEN ARE BEATEN

Englishman Wins 20-Mile Race at Kaw City From Johnson and Guest.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 1.—Jumping into the lead with the crack of the starter's pistol, George Dunning, a native of Dalston, England, running under the colors of the Kansas City Athletic Club, was never headed, and won the first Kansas City Marathon race, over a 20-mile course, Monday afternoon, in the unusually fast time of 2 hours and 15 minutes.

Dunning set a fast pace in the first mile and he maintained his powerful stride until he reached the Kansas City Athletic Club track, at Thirty-third and Locust streets, when he settled into a jog and finished easily and in excellent physical condition.

Frank Johnson, a runner from Granite City, Ill., finished second in 2h. 28m. 30s. Harrison Guest of the Missouri Athletic Club, St. Louis, was third in 2h. 36m. 30s. Charley O'Donnell of Kansas City Athletic Club came in fourth, and Jesse Bender, Kansas City Athletic Club, finished fifth, giving three of the first five places to the club that arranged the race. Dunning, Johnson and Guest finished strong. The others were more or less exhausted. Dunning, the victor, has been in this country only a few months.

He was "discovered" in the Y. M. C. A. five-mile road race in April. He captured that event with ease. The first 10 miles of yesterday's race was a series of hill climbs. When Dunning set his heart-breaking pace on the jump the experienced Marathoners from Chicago and St. Louis smiled disdainfully.

"He will soon get enough of these hills," they said, "then he'll be back here with the rest of us." But Dunning never fell back. He saw the hills and conquered them.

MOTORIST FINISHES THIRD AFTER BAD ACCIDENT

NEW YORK, June 1.—Speeding about the steep Clifton Stadium track at Paterson, at a 1:20 clip, yesterday afternoon, in a four-cornered, 20-mile, motor-paced race, with Pete Drobach, Frank Cadwell and W. L. Mitten, Fred Hill's front wheel swerved just the slightest bit, throwing him 20 feet in the air. He landed on the track and rolled to the bottom, just escaping the other motors.

When revived Hill insisted on resuming, after losing more than a mile. He rode furiously about the track, taking desperate chances, regaining lap after lap, until in the seventeenth mile he was only four laps behind the leader, Caldwell. Here the loss of blood and shock weakened him, and he slackened, but pluckily continued to the finish.

Caldwell won, with Drobach one lap behind. Hill was third, four laps in the rear of Caldwell. Mitten did not figure. The time was 32 minutes 37 4-5 seconds.

The accident happened in the third mile. Examination showed that Hill had ridden 17 miles with a broken collarbone.

Sharpshooters to Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Louis Sharpshooters' Association will be held Tuesday evening, at Bohemian Hall, Ninth street and Allen avenue. A. G. Rieman, secretary, will call the meeting to order at 8 o'clock.

WRAY'S COLUMN.

WHEN Herr Owgoost Herrmann, who is the entire camembert in the baseball world and instructor of the first class in baseball science and extrication at the Laughery Institute, called his pupils to order Tuesday morning, it was at once patent that Col. R. E. Morse had obtained a blanket injunction restraining the countenances of all present from breaking the prevailing melancholy.

Diligent questioning revealed that the condition was not due to celebrating the holiday, but to decorating.

"But you are not interested in dead soldiers," protested Herr Owgoost.

"No," replied Joseph Cantillon, Frank Bowerman and Jimmy McAleer in chorus, "but we all boast honored dead ones at the army game."

After the sergeant at arms had with difficulty restrained Herr Owgoost from doing violence to one of the clubs' art steins, which he had intended using as a means of quelling the evident levity of his class, Teacher proceeded with the business of the day.

"Mr. Bowerman, I will ask you to tell this class why, after yesterday's games, the Cardinals resemble a $100 picture hat?"

"Mr. Teacher, that's just kindergarten—because they were well trimmed."

"Mr. Lajoie," continued Owgoost, ignoring Bowerman, "we notice that you are still using a recruit as a backstop, instead of your veterans. Tell the class why you continue to give the preference to Easterly?"

"It sounds like a step in the right direction, doesn't it?" and all the class rubbered at Larry to see if he had at last graduated into the Old Joke's Home.

"Referring back," continued Owgoost, who is a terror when he finds a sore spot, "what club ought to be most proficient at this army game?"

"The Colonels ought to be best officered," replied George Cantillen, just like that.

"Mr. Jennings," continued teacher with a now-I've-got-you look in his eye, "it has been a matter of some comment how your team managed to stand up so well, early in the season, when all the other clubs were suffering from cold weather."

"Well," sighed the freckled one, as if reluctant to injure Owgoost, "you see all seasons are Summers with us."

Nothing daunted, Owgoost kept right on.

"Now, who can tell the name of the club that is best of all at the delayed steal?"

"That's easy," replied James McAleer. "The Browns delay more steals than any two clubs in either league."

"Clark Griffith, when this nonsense clears away, I will ask you to point out why Larry McLean is the best hitter in the National League?"

"It's this way—I just charged him up with 560 for his batting in New York," replied Clarkie, as he deducted the same from Larry's salary, "and those figures will lead any league."

Owgoost saw that he would be unable to get over a rap to the brain pantry, so in disgust he quit the game, after asking the easiest question of the morning—one that each pupil is always expected to answer:

"What will you have?"

The way they pronounce that clever Boston pitcher's name would induce one to think the gentleman an entire battery in himself. Here's the real and vernacular: Cicotte—Cy Caught.

It was a case, Monday, of the Bender bent.

J. B. C.—Waivers were probably asked on Rossmann to make him believe that the management had some idea of letting him go. Nobody else believed it.

Why does the Irish-American Athletic Club cling to the latter half of its name?

It seems rather queer that we recruit our Olympic teams from England and Ireland, and call it a glorious American victory when we win abroad.

Tigers and Pirates Keep to Front in Big Leagues

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

DETROIT is now three full games in the lead of the American League race. Since the season began, the Tigers have been out of the top position but one night. The Athletics climbed into the much-coveted place not long since, but the Tigers clawed them out again the next afternoon. The Athletics are now second, with New York third, four and one-half games behind Detroit. Boston is next, five games behind the leaders, and the Browns come next, seven and one-half games from the top. The Tigers have just whipped the Chicago White Sox in a series, finishing Monday by winning the morning game and tying in the afternoon.

The world's champion Cubs have just made a smashing tour of the East, but on their return home, bumped into a double defeat by the Pirates Sunday that kept them from going into the lead. Monday they split even in two games with the Reds, while the Pirates took two from the Cardinals. The Cubs are now three games from the top. Incidentally, it was Pat Moran's double that won the afternoon game Monday, which news must have been of great interest to one Johnny Kling, who abides abides in Kansas City.

THE New York Giants clambered out of the second division Monday and went into a tie for third place in the National League race. To all appearances, McGraw has them in shape now to start a stampede. They beat the Phillies in both games Monday, and now each team has won 17 and lost 17. McGraw has a great team, without a this week, opening here Friday against doubt. It begins a tour of the West the Cardinals. In St. Louis and Cincinnati, it should have but little trouble, but in Chicago and Pittsburg the battles will surely be hot.

Frank Bowerman's Doves, who have been playing for thre weeks as though their wings were clipped, came to life Monday and won a game. They beat Brooklyn in the morning fracas, 1 to 0, Mattern and McIntyre having a desperate pitcher's battle.

Big Chief Bender, the Indian twirler for the Athletics, met his first defeat Monday, when Boston gave him a beating in the morning battle. Incidentally Boston won both games from the Athletics, Cicotte pitching the morning contest after being absent from the team several weeks because of illness, and Morgan taking the second. Boston, after all, seems to have more stability than any of the other Eastern clubs, who have flashed such speed this spring. If any of them keeps up in the fighting to the close of the season, it is likely to be the Bostons.

DECATUR and Bloomington, two of the Three I League clubs, engaged in a record-breaking game Monday, going through 26 innings before Decatur batted home the winning run and won by a count of 2 to 1. The surprising part of it is, that Bloomington has protested the game, claiming that a Decatur runner cut second base in scoring that winning run from first, when the batter tripled. No doubt the umpire's eyes were tired after watching plays for more than four hours, and he should be excused from censure.

Christy Mathewson won the afternoon game for the Giants Monday with a home run in the eighth inning. The score was tied, 4 to 4, when he came to bat, and his drive for four bags brought victory. The Giants battered up three of the Phillies' best twirlers to get that game, and Coveleski was one of them.

George Mullin, the Detroit star, won his ninth straight victory by beating the White Sox Monday. He hasn't lost a game this year, and seems likely to surpass anything he has ever done in other seasons, and perhaps set a new pitching record for the big leagues. Two years ago he was counted a weak member of the Detroit pitching staff, and yet there are those who say ball players never come back when once they start down.

Middies Fight a Draw.

SOUTH BERWICK, Me., June 1.—The final bout between Jim Hayward of the U. S. S. Wisconsin and Jack McHugh of the U. S. S. New Hampshire, at 145 pounds, for the welterweight championship of the fleet, ended in a draw at the end of six innings. Both men were evenly matched and the fight was a hummer from start to finish.

S.S.S. HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

S. S. S. heals Sores and Ulcers in the very simplest way. It just goes right down into the blood and removes the cause, and the place is bound to heal because the impurities and morbid matters which have been the means of keeping the ulcer open are no longer absorbed from the blood. External applications of salves, lotions, plasters, etc., can never produce a cure because they do not reach the source of the trouble. At best they can only allay pain or reduce inflammation; such treatment is working on symptoms and not reaching the cause. Every nutritive corpuscle in the blood is weakened or infected, they cannot nourish the fibrous tissue around the place, but instead they constantly discharge into the flesh around the sore a quantity of impure, germ-laden matter which gradually eats into the surrounding healthy tissue and causes the ulcer to enlarge. Since impure blood is responsible for Sores and Ulcers, a medicine that can purify the blood is the only hope of a cure. S. S. S. has long been recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing the qualities necessary to remove every impurity from the blood. While curing the sore or ulcer S. S. S. brings about a healthy condition of the flesh by supplying it with rich, healthy blood, and thus makes the cure permanent and lasting. SPORTSMANSHIP FOR COLLEGE GAMES URGED

The campaign for better sportsmanship in cheering at college baseball games, instituted at Cornell, is bearing fruit. Within ten days the undergraduates at Yale and Brown so far forgot themselves in their anxiety to win that their action called forth sharp criticism in the editorial columns of their daily papers. Following the defeat of Yale by Brown, the Yale Daily News said:

"One month ago the News received a telegram from the Cornell Daily Sun, inquiring whether 'Yale cheers with the intention of rattling the pitcher or other player at critical points of a game while the visiting team is in the field.' In answer, we replied: 'The only time when there is cheering, under such circumstances as you write of, is when a player comes to bat after a hit, after a run and after a good play, without respect to the side achieving it. Cheering or singing at any time is never intended to rattle the opponent's pitcher. Yesterday's game contradicts our statement.

"For the sake of good sport and our desire to attain a sportsmanlike attitude toward athletics these breaks of etiquette ought to be discontinued. In a few weeks the responsibility of undergraduate behavior at a baseball game will depend upon the cheer leaders. We hope that they may side with us in this matter of cheering—to stifle all attemps to rattle either the pitcher of other player of the team in the field and to shun any outburst at an error of our opponents."

Three days later, after Brown's defeat by Lafayette, the following sharp criticism appeared in the Brown Herald:

"The disorganized cheering in the ninth inning of Saturday's game, when, with two on bases and none out, the Brown stands attempted to unnerve the Lafayette pitcher and players by hooting and rowdy cheering was one of the most ungentlemanly exhibitions ever given by Brown undergraduates. * * * The Herald is sincerely sorry that the incident occurred, and is sure that a repetition of such tactics will not be tolerated here."

COUNTRY CLUB GOLFERS LEAD IN SPECIAL MATCH

Harry Potter and W. Arthur Stickney of the Country Club won the first block of a special golf match with Christian Kenney of the Algonquin Club and Tommy Carter of Glen Echo, played on the links of the Glen Echo Club Monday afternoon. The match ended even up after some of the best play witnessed in a local foursome in years.

Kenney and Carter gained an early lead in the 18-hole match, but Potter and Stickney played strong as the match went on and by some clever work from the fourteenth hole on, managed to even matters up. The second block of the match will be played on the links of the Country Club, while the final blocks will be played at the Algonquin Club. There is a possibility of a change in this arrangement. It is likely that the second block will be played Saturday

Glover Beats Curley.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Mike Glover of Boston had the better of Jack Curley of New York throughout their 10-round go Monday night. Glover's blows were especially effective in the third and seventh. A heavy swing that went wild carried Curley off his feet in the latter round and for the remainder of the bout Curley stalled and clinched.

PIRATES PLAY JUST A LITTLE BETTER GAME

Cardinals' Work, Even In Defeat, Good Enough to Win Any Average Battle.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 1.

THE double defeat of the Cardinals Monday was no disgrace to the players of that hustling team or to the managerial ability of Roger Bresnahan. It is the question if any team in the League would have had a chance to have even made the games as interesting as did the visiting St. Louis club.

In the morning battle Johnny Lush, who has always been a hard nut for the Pirates to crack, pitched a masterly game up to the eighth inning, and even then his work looked so good that no person, not even Phelps, who was catching, attempted to warm up a twirler. In that inning the Pirates simply could not be denied base hits; the two singles and a pair of doubles were hard hit balls, not near any one. Even the chance on which Charles made an error would nave been charged a hit by nine out of ten scorers. It was near second base when he got over and he could not balance himself for the throw. This misplay allowed the score to cross the plate that tied up the game. Then Gibson, who never hits a ball anywhere near right field, hit a liner that just landed inside the foul line, scoring Wilson with what proved to be the winning run.

The only fault that could be found with the visiting players was that Evans did not take a chance to score in the second inning of the morning; but the fans at St. Louis have evidently seen Wilson, the Pirates' right fielder. And Evans, knowing the strength of that arm, would not take that chance. It proved a sad mistake for the visitors, for Wilson's throw was stopped by Maddox, who threw to second in time to retire Hulswitt.

The second game was a fine one, Rhodes outpitching Adams, but the Pirates had all the luck. Some of the hits that started out from the Cardinals' bats looked good for long smashes; but a Pirate was always in the way.

Konetchy had two chances to win the game by a timely bingle, but could not connect. Shaw, in the eighth inning, could have tied up the game, had he been able to hit, as Rhodes was on third and Byrne on second. But Adams put on steam and bent the third one over, none were out at the time and it looked very bad for Adams. Phelps hit a high fly to Wagner, and Evans gave Clarke a chance to make a great catch.

Outside of the second inning, when the visitors scored two runs on a double by Koney, Evans' single and a double by Ellis, they had no earthly chance to win.

Had it not been for Wagner and Miller, who simply set every fan present dippy by their work, probably the Cardinals would have scored a few runs.

Seen From the Stand, While the Pirates Were Winning Two

IN the fourth inning of the afternoon game, with Ellis on first, Hulswitt started what looked like a triple right over short. How Wagner ever jumped high enough in the air to catch the ball cannot be explained, some claim that ball was 10 or 12 feet above the ground, but the "Flying Dutchman" airshipped, and when he landed on the ground it was seen that he had the ball in his hand. He whipped it to Abstein at first, completing a double play.

Wilson played a remarkable game in right for the Pirates, his throw from deep field catching Rhodes, who tried to stretch his long single into a double.

Adams gets credit for both victories, as the first game was 4-1 against the Pirates when he began pitching.

Ellis, a fast man, stole his first base of the season in the seventh inning.

The game Tuesday afternoon was scheduled to start at 3 o'clock, in order to allow the Cardinals to catch the 6 o'clock train for home.

Ellis made a remarkable catch of Adams' line fly in the second inning of the second game. The ball when it left the bat looked good for a triple, but the speedy left fielder covered ground and just managed to reach the ball.

Lush was the unlucky kid in the eighth inning of the first game. The hits went to the outfield like bullets.

The sun stuck behind the clouds all morning and it did not look promising for a game, which accounts for the small crowd. In the afternoon the sun was shining brightly and the crowd covered the entire outfield.

Shaw's triple in the third inning of the first game hit the left-field fence on the fly. It took fast fielding on the part of Clarke to prevent the big fellow from circling the bases.

Phelps got but a single in each contest. Eddie has been killing the ball in every game. His average after the double-header was .423.

Make Up Your Mind What Drink You Want

The fountain days have come. But don't wait till you reach the fountain to know what drink you want.

Nature makes us all thirsty because it is good to take the proper kind of drink into the system.

She makes us thirstier in hot weather, because our systems need the proper kind of liquid more in hot weather.

But—the proper kind, remember.

Hot days pull down the system.

We do not want a drink with a narcotic or drug in it that will affect the heart.

If we can keep the stomach and the brain cool, and the heart normal, by some drink that puts new energy in us—that's the drink to take.

It gives you energy—braces you up—without any after-effect. It is a splendid digestive—soothes and cools the stomach. Made of pure ingredients—herbs as Nature presents them to us.

When you go to the fountain call for it by name—Hires. You will thoroughly enjoy a good cool drink which will keep you cool.

Children actually need it in hot weather.

Call for it by NAME—Hires.

SON OF ASSESSOR IN FIGHT; BREAKS YOUTH'S COLLAR BONE

Christian Brinkop Jr. Knocks Down Edward Koeln in Quarrel Over Baseball Error.

Christian Brinkop Jr., 17-year-old son of the City Assessor, broke Edward Koeln's collar bone when they fought at Chippewa street and California avenue Monday evening. Koeln, who is 22 years old and lives at 4400 South Compton avenue and who says he is not related to the City Collector, was at the City Hospital Tuesday. Brinkop was arrested, but released on bond.

Koeln said he and Brinkop had been friends until about two weeks ago, when Brinkop began teasing him about muffing a fly in a baseball game. This teasing, Koeln says, caused him to strike Brinkop when they met Monday. Brinkop struck back, knocking Koeln down and breaking his collar bone.

Down on His Congressman.

3284 LYNCHINGS IN LAST 25 YEARS, ASSERTS WOMAN

Mrs. Ida Wells Barnett Proposes Bureau to Investigate Mob Violence.

STATUS OF THE NEGRO

Question of Social Equality Is Sidestepped at National Conference.

NEW YORK, June 1.—That 3284 men, women and children have been lynched in this country in the last quarter of a century was the assertion of Mrs. Ida Wells Barnett at the National Conference on "The Status of the American Negro" in this city today. Asking why this was permitted by a Christian nation, Mrs. Barnett quoted John Temple Graves as saying that the mob stands as the most potential bulwark between the women of the South and such a carnival of crime as would precipitate the annihilation of the negro race. "All know this is untrue," Mrs. Barnett said.

"The lynching record," she added, "disclose the hypocrisy of the lynchers."

Describing the riots at Springfield, Ill., Mrs. Barnett said it was all because a white woman said a negro had attacked her. Later, Mrs. Barnett said, the woman published a retraction, but the lynched victims were dead.

Mrs. Barnett, who has spent several years in the investigation of lynching through the South and West brought a proposal to the conference that it maintain a permanent bureau for investigation, with attendant publicity of all lynchings. Publicity, she said, was an effective safeguard.

Equality Question Sidestepped.

The conference was formally opened yesterday in the assembly hall of the United Charities Building. The question of equality was cleverly sidestepped, though on several occasions it was brought up adroitly by a negro delegate who would refer to the interest taken by the white man in the political and economic standing of the negro and the effort to win justice for him.

One negro advocate, George Clemm of Boston, was particularly anxious that the proceedings should be opened with prayer, and he also deplored the absence of young white women at the meeting.

Whether or not the conference will become an annual affair is doubtful, as it has encountered opposition on the part of some of the prominent men who have been asked to attend. Seth Low, Francis Lynde Stetson and several others declined the invitation on the ground that although they were friends of the negro, they did not believe such a conference could bring much good, because it must necessarily emphasize the points of difference.

More Negroes Than Whites.

The attendance showed a larger proportion of negroes than whites, but the two races sat together and commingled during debate. Among those who attended were Prof. Livingston Farrand and Prof. John Dewey of Columbia; Bishop Alexander Walters of the Zion Methodist Church; Mrs. Celia Parker Wooley, founder of the Frederick Douglas Center, in Chicago; Jane Addams of the Hull House; Ida Wells Barrett, the negro editor, whose printing presses were destroyed in Tennessee by a white mob, and who addressed the conference on lynchings in the South; Judge Wendell Stafford, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia; Clarence Darrow, the Chicago radical; Prof. John Spencer Bassett of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., who was forced to leave the South on account of his pro-negro utterances; Edwin D. Meade, of Boston; Prof. W. E. Du Bois of Atlanta University, author of "The Souls of Black Folks," and William A. Bennett, representative in Congress from New York.

In order to refute the generally accepted Southern dictum that a negro could not be improved by education, the platform was surrounded with charts showing diagrams of the brains of an ape, an orang outang, an unscrupulous politician, an illiterate black janitor and a prominent mathematician.

Preserved Brains Exhibited.

Prof. Burt G. Wilder of Cornell University, who is the author of "a form of bequest of brains," exhibited preserved brains and showed that apparatus of man and beast. He pleased his negro auditors mightily when he said: "The negro is distinctly human in all essential respects, and as yet there has been found no constant feature by which it may be certainly distinguished from that of a Caucasian; whereas, either of them is at once distinguished from the brain of an ape, and would be by a dozen or more points of structure, even if they were of the same size."

Prof. Wilder contended that the brain of a negro was about two ounces lighter than that of the average white man. Prof. Wilder asked all Africans who had attained eminence to leave their brains to his department at Cornell.

William Hayes Ward, who presided at the opening session, in his opening address said that the purpose of the conference was to emphasize the principle that equal justice should be done to man as man, and particularly to the negro.

Mrs. Celia Parker Wooley, who was accorded a warm welcome, said: "It is not the negro who is at stake in this controversy, deep and widespread as are his wrongs. It is the white man, the white man's civilization, the white man's republic. It is not a question of negro supremacy, but of the worth of those claims to superiority which are so easily alarmed for their own safety and continuance."

Prof. Du Bois said: "The voteless negro is a provocation, an invitation to oppression, a plaything for mobs and a bonanza for demagogues. When the negro casts a free and intelligent vote in the South, then, and not until then, will the negro problem be settled."

HELD FOR WIFE'S DEATH, DOCTOR TRIES SUICIDE

Physician Breaks Down in Cell and Police Expect Clearing of Mystery.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Dr. Haldana Cleminson, who is held by the police in connection with the mysterious death of his wife, Mrs. Nora Morgan Cleminson, at their home 4188 Wayne avenue, was found today lying unconscious on the floor of his cell in the Sheffield Avenue Station. Physicians are now making an investigation and two policemen have been stationed at his cell door.

When he was placed in the cell Monday evening, Dr. Cleminson broke down and wept. It is believed that in desperation he swallowed poison in the night. How he secured the drug and what poison he used is unknown to the police.

Capt. Thomas C. Kane expressed the belief today that the prisoner will break down within the next 12 hours and tell a story that will clear up the mystery surrounding the death of his wife.

Dr. Cleminson maintains that he and his wife were chloroformed by burglars. She died, he said, from the effects of the drug. The police and her relatives declare she was murdered.

After a second interview with the suspected man, Capt. Kane ordered him locked up. The police captain scoffed at the burglar story told by Dr. Cleminson. The parents of the physician appealed to Kane to permit the prisoner to attend the funeral of his wife in Forest Home Cemetery. This was granted.

Memorial Day Celebrator Vacates a Front Platform Every Cast.

NEW YORK, June 1.—What Magistrate Krotel considered a fanciful type of Memorial day celebration came into Harlem Police Court with Fred Kather, a prisoner, yesterday.

"It was most remarkable," explained Sergt. Higgins. "This man used a rope 40 feet long as a lasso, and as the trolley cars passed the corner of 116th street and Second avenue, he lassoed the motormen from the platform. He yanked a motorman from the platform every time he made a cast."

Kather was fined $2.

UNION MEN ARE ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF USING DYNAMITE

Two New School Buildings Erected by Nonunion Men Objects of Attack.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 1.—Fred Campbell, J. Sullivan and Henry Sorenson, union iron workers, are under arrest charged with being implicated in the dynamiting Saturday night of two new school buildings, the Robidoux and McKinley.

The schools were being erected by P. P. Buddy and J. W. Lehr, contractors, who conduct open shops. Campbell was identified by Buddy as a man who asked him to discharge some nonunion ironworkers. This Buddy refused to do and he was told he would hear again from Campbell, who said he was a walking delegate for the Iron Workers' Union.

In the Robidoux School were found dynamite sticks wrapped in four pages of a Kansas City newspaper. The other four pages of the newspaper were found in a stove in Campbell's room after the arrest.

All three men under arrest deny any knowledge of the explosions.

FRIENDS MEET AT THE FUNERAL OF CRITTENDEN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 1.—The members of both houses of the City Council, the heads of departments at the City Hall, many members of the Kansas City bar, many business men and personal friends of the family, attended the funeral of Thomas T. Crittenden at the home, 3220 Flora avenue, yesterday afternoon. Many women were present.

The house, porch, lawn and neighboring lawns were filled and many were forced to stand in the street. Floral offerings without number were heaped about the coffin and covered the walls and porch. The coffin was draped with the flag of the Seventh Missouri Cavalry, of which Mr. Crittenden was a member during the Civil War.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Thomas P. Haley, assisted by the Rev. Burris A. Jenkins. Although Mr. Crittenden was a member of the Presbyterian church, it was at his request, expressed many times before his death, and by a sealed letter found among his personal belongings after his death, that the Rev. Mr. Haley, a Christian minister, conducted his funeral. Mr. Haley, who was a lifelong friend of Mr. Crittenden, opened his sermon with a biographical sketch of the ex-Governor.

The pallbearers were: Kelley Brent, John Hanley, W. W. Collins, S. L. Long, Daniel T. Blake, W. S. Cowherd, Porter H. Hovey and Leon T. Brown. Burial was in Forest Hill Cemetery.

PASSENGERS PUT IN PANIC BY FIRE ON P-A-Y-E CAR

Many Bruised and Jostled on Narrow Platform in Rush for Exit.

Rushing to the narrow rear entrance of a pay-as-you-enter Wellston car, which had caught fire from a blown-out fuse on the front platform, 50 passengers jostled and bruised one another Tuesday in getting out. The fire broke out at Thirteenth and Morgan streets at 7:30 a. m.

George Briding of 5237 Theodosia avenue, one of the first to reach the street, turned in an alarm and firemen responded. They found the motorman, who had stayed in his smoke-filled vestibule, trying to beat out the fire with his cap.

The conductor, penned in his small cage at the rear, had been unable to jerk the trolley down until after the current had set the woodwork afire. The firemen saved the car, and it was run back to the sheds, while the passengers walked to their places of employment.

BOMB INJURES 3 IN CHICAGO

Downtown Building Wrecked When Gamblers Renew War.

CHICAGO, June 1.—The bomb thrower, who has been the nemesis of local gamblers for more than a year, resumed operations last night. The entire front of a building in the downtown district was blown out and three persons were slightly injured.

This is the thirty-first of a series of similar explosions. The explosions are the result of a war between two factions of gamblers. A "whist" party was said to have been in progress in the wrecked building.

5. Police and court buildings	2,000,000	2,000,000	976,894.98
6. Bridges and viaducts	1,000,000	400,000	....
7. King's highway (city's share)	500,000	500,000	170,672.50
8. Public sewers	1,500,000	*500,000	....
9. Public Parks	670,000	670,000	662,933.73
Totals	$11,200,000	$6,500,000	$2,031,427.21

*$215,000 set aside, but not used.

Work on but six of the nine important public improvements for which a total of $11,200,000 in bonds was voted three years ago has been commenced thus far.

Of the bonds authorized at the election June 12, 1906, $6,500,000 have been sold. On July 1 the semi-annual interest on these bonds will have to be paid. The use of this large sum for the year will cost the city $260,000, or about one-eighth of the sum already spent on the several improvements.

The building of the new Insane Asylum and the purchase of six new parks have exhausted the money voted for those purposes. Construction of the Asylum is under way. It is expected that the building will be ready for use in about eight months. Its cost will be $1,000,000, or just the amount that was authorized in the bond issue.

Park Fund Exhausted.

In acquiring its six small parks, at Twenty-third and Carr streets, Tenth and O'Fallon streets, Ninth and Soulard, Eighth and Soulard streets, Tenth street and Ann avenue, and Eleventh and Mullanphy streets, the city has expended $662,933.73. The difference between that amount and the $670,000 voted has been set aside for the beautification and maintenance of these parks.

The site of the municipal buildings west of the City Hall cost $976,849.98 so that of the $2,000,000 yielded by the sale of bonds for that purpose, there remains but $1,023,105.02 with which to meet the cost of the buildings. The plans already approved by the Board of Public Improvements contemplate structures representing an outlay of at least $1,500,000. This deficit of nearly half a million, it is expected, will be supplied by appropriations from municipal revenue.

Thus for $170,672.50 has been paid for land through which King's highway boulevard will be extended. A total of $500,000 in bonds was authorized to bear the city's share of the expense in establishing the boulevard, and all of them have been sold.

Ready to Work on Boulevard.

Street Commissioner Travilla says that if the Municipal Assembly does not adjourn before passing the necessary legislation he will have his forces at work on the boulevard this summer.

Sites for engine houses and the buildings themselves have been bought from the proceeds of the bonds issued in behalf of the Fire Department. But $130,000 of the $230,000 of bonds authorized have been sold. Of that sum $120,926 has been paid for ground and buildings.

All the bonds voted for the new city hospital—$800,000—have been sold, and contracts for the erection of the building will be let next month. This sum has been found sufficient with which to realize present plans.

More Money Needed for Bridge.

Another sale of bonds voted for the free birdge will be necessary, city officials feel, within the next three months. The contracts for the building of the four piers will be let within sixty days. That work will mean an outlay of $550,000, which is $50,000 more than is now on hand. In addition, the condemnation and purchase of approaches on both sides of the river will require a sum equally large. It is believed that $1,000,000 of the $3,000,000 of bonds yet unsold will have to be placed on the market.

There has been set aside $215,000 for the building of public sewers, but none of this has been used and there are as yet no definite plans for its application. For an increase in the mileage of big sewers $1,500,000 in bonds was voted, but only a third of the total is available. The whole sum is regarded as not more than a tenth of what will be necessary to convert the River des Peres into a sewer from its beginning in Forest Park to the Mississippi River.

The new viaduct over the Missouri Pacific and Frisco tracks at King's highway has been planned, but no money has been spent on that improvement. The $400,000 raised by the sale of a part of the $1,000,000 worth of bonds voted for bridges and viaducts is in the treasury, untouched.

Gas Range Popularity.

The ever-increasing sale of the well-known and celebrated "Quick Meal" Gas Range has lead many to inquire why this one particular range so easily outsells its many rivals. The answer is most aptly given in the words of one housewife, who has been using a "Quick Meal" for many years. She says: "For convenience, durability, satisfactory results and gas saving no range is its equal. The sensible inventions and improvements found exclusively in the 'Quick Meal' have made it simple, yet exact in its construction. Take, for instance, the gas-saving valve attached to each burner, preventing an undue waste of gas. I can leave my range in charge of a careless servant and know that the gas pressure will be just what is needed and no more. Especially convenient is the elevated-oven range, which prevents stooping, so tiresome to the housewife. My gas bills are exceedingly reasonable, and I find the cost much less than what I formerly had when using the ordinary coal range."

The "Quick Meal" Gas Range is sold by almost every dealer in St. Louis.

SON OF RAILROAD OFFICIAL GETS ALONG WITHOUT "PULL"

Young Kruttschnitt Gets Job as Boss of a Gang of Greek Trackmen.

CHICAGO, June 1.—A circular issued by the superintendent of the Shasta division of the Southern Pacific road discloses that one of the sons of Julius Kruttschnitt, director of operation and maintenance of the Harriman system, is trying to work his way up from the bottom without a "pull." It announces that T. H. Kruttschnitt has been appointed assistant roadmaster of the Siskiyou district of the Shasta division of the Southern Pacific, with headquarters at Weed, Cal. The circular was the first intimation the elder Kruttschnitt had of his son's appointment.

The position which young Kruttschnitt, who is a Yale graduate, has accepted is so humble that heretofore none but track laborers have aspired to it. His duties will be bossing a gang made up of Greeks, Italians and possily Japanese.

SOUVENIR SAMPLES TO LADIES

SILVER SET GIVEN TO SHIP ON SHORE BECAUSE OF GALE

Mississippi's Officers Fight Waves to Reach Landing for Formal Presentation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SCRANTON, Miss., June 1.—As a result of stormy weather and heavy seas, which made the battleship Mississippi inaccessible to old vessels, the presentation of the silver set to the warship took place on shore at Anderson's Park Casino this morning, instead of on the Mississippi. The gale blowing from the southeast did not permit the silver service to be taken to the warship. The State's gift will be taken to Philadelphia later and informally presented.

High seas around Horn Island, where the battleship lay at anchor, ten miles from the beach, prevented visitors from going to the ship. The officers had difficulty in coming ashore because of high waves and it was necessary for them to be launched in whaleboats in order to be transferred to the Magnolia, the lighthouse tender.

The legitimate PAID circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its suburbs is greater than that of ALL other English Dailies COMBINED.

ACTORS AND MINISTERS TO CENSOR DRAMA IN CHICAGO

Church Alliance Decides to Discuss Plays and Give Unprejudiced Criticism.

CHICAGO, June 1.—A movement in Chicago to censor the drama is about to be started by the Chicago branch of the Actors' Church Alliance. Its membership includes not only members of the theatrical profession, but also ministers and laymen interested in the development of the drama as a powerful agent in the solution of educational and social problems.

At the annual meeting of the Chicago branch it was decided to establish as a permanent feature a discussion of all modern plays presented in Chicago as to their moral and social features and giving to the theater-going public an unprejudiced criticism.

MRS. LILLEY ASKS LARGER SHARE OF $1,000,000 ESTATE

Contest Likely Over Will of the Former Connecticut Congressman and Governor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WATERBURY, Conn., June 1.—Unless the beneficiaries under the will of former Gov. George E. Lilley, who left an estate of a million dollars, come to an agreement out of court in the next few days, the courts will have to decide a contest which promises interesting disclosures.

Mrs. Lilley is the one that must be satisfied by the other beneficiaries, according to the general report. She was left an income of only $300 a month by her husband.

In view of the fact that Mrs. Lilley spent a part of her private fortune to pay the running expenses of the home of the former Congressman and Governor, she believes that she has a just claim against the estate. It is stated that the amount will reach close to $150,000.

The will forms a trust for nearly 60 years, and the fact that it does not give Mrs. Lilley her dower rights is of course another ground for contest.

It is law that "no estate shall vest in a future owner unless it vests within a life or lives in being at the time it was created, and 21 years and 9 months as a limit thereafter," hence the Governor's paragraphs creating a trust seem to be illegal, as do also the other provisions involving some of the family.

MADMAN KILLS FIVE WITH AX

Police Place Cordon Around Town and Capture Murderer.

BILBAO, June 1.—A madman in the neighboring town of Arrufa, after attacking his mother and setting fire to a house in which she took refuge, ran amuck through the streets with an ax with which he killed five persons.

The assassin disappeared for awhile, but the police placed a cordon around the town and finally arrested him. There was a desperate struggle after the police received reinforcements before the murderer was captured.

Unprecedentedly Low Rates to the Seashore

New opportunities in summer travel fares are afforded the public this year by the

New York Central Lines

There's lots of fun for young and old at the seashore. Few outdoor enjoyments afford the beneficial excitement and invigoration that surf bathing gives. The constantly changing scenes, the delightful, exhilarating, health-giving atmosphere, the gayety of happy throngs, gives the seashore a fascination all its own.

$33.35 to $36.35 to Boston and Return
According to Route

$29.50 to $32.85 to New York and Return
According to Route

and correspondingly low fares to the Thousand Islands, Adirondacks, White and Green Mountains, Saratoga Springs, Lake George and Lake Champlain, Montreal and Canadian and Maine points.

These tickets are good on all trains. The famous Knickerbocker Special leaves at 1:00 p. m. daily, reaching New York at 5:55 p. m. and Boston 8:30 p. m. next day. Other good trains at 8:32 a. m., 12:00 noon (via Washington) and 11:55 p. m.

Both routes are via Great Lakes, Niagara Falls, Mohawk and Hudson River Valleys to New York; the Berkshire Hills instead of Hudson River to Boston—cool—scenic—water level—insuring pleasant riding by day and certain sleep at night. All trains via New York Central Lines arrive at Grand Central Station, New York's only railroad terminal—in the heart of hotel, theater and business district. Subway under same roof—Brooklyn 15 minutes without change—few minutes to Long Island resorts. Trains to Boston arrive at South Terminal Station.

Radway's Ready Relief

SORE THROAT, BRONCHITIS, TONSILITIS and all INFLAMMATIONS

There is nothing in the world that will stop pains or arrest the progress of disease as quick as RADWAY'S READY RELIEF. Cures and prevents Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Influenza, Pneumonia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, Asthma, Difficult Breathing. Cures every pain and ache throughout the human body.

For 60 Years a Home Remedy

The cold, piercing winter storms are as destructive of human life as any of the terrible epidemic diseases. Think of the many deaths daily occurring of people of robust constitution, killed outright through the ravages of pneumonia, by exposure to a chilling storm. It is well known that pneumonia, tonsilitis, sore throat, inflammation of the bronchial tubes, inflammation of the bowels, inflammation of the lungs, etc., are dangerous diseases, and that, to save the life of the patient, it is of the utmost importance to arrest them in their first stages, as in their later stages they will baffle the skill of the most eminent physicians, while in their incipient state they are promptly and easily cured.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF

In every family this invaluable specific remedy for all inflammatory diseases should be constantly kept on hand. The expense is a mere trifle, and saves more than twenty times the amount in doctors' or druggists' bills.

ASTHMA FOR 12 YEARS.

Brooklyn, Jan. 16, 1907.

Dear Sir—It affords me great pleasure to write to you and tell you how much good Radway's Ready Relief has done for me.

I had asthma for twelve years and tried everything and was tired of going to doctors.

About two years ago I saw in the papers the advertisement of Radway's Ready Relief and bought a bottle and gave it a fair trial. Before I finished the first bottle I felt greatly relieved and took it when I would get these great spells.

I kept on taking it until I was entirely cured. I would not be without a bottle of R. R. R. in the house. I can say that R. R. R. is worth its weight in gold. Respectfully yours,

MRS. H. W. SCHROEDER, 867 Greene Ave., Brooklyn.

BABY'S TERRIBLE WATERY ECZEMA

Itching Humor Broke Out on Tiny Mite's Cheeks—Would Tear His Face Till Blood Streamed Down Unless Hands were Bandaged—Spent $50 on Useless Treatments.

CURED BY CUTICURA AT COST OF BUT $1.50

"When my little boy was two and a half months old he broke out on both cheeks with eczema. It was the itchy, watery kind and we had to keep his little hands wrapped up all the time, and if he would happen to get them uncovered he would claw his face till the blood streamed down on his clothing. We called in a physician at once, but he gave an ointment which was so severe that my babe would scream when it was put on. We changed doctors and medicines until we had spent fifty dollars or more and baby was getting worse. I was so worn out watching and caring for him night and day that I almost felt sure the disease was incurable. But finally reading of the good results of the Cuticura Remedies, I determined to try them. I can truthfully say I was more than surprised, for I bought only a dollar and a half's worth of the Cuticura Remedies (Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills), and they did more good than all my doctors' medicines I had tried, and in fact entirely cured him. I will send you a photograph taken when he was fifteen months old and you can see his face is perfectly clear of the least spot or scar of anything. If I ever have this trouble again, I will never think of doctoring but will send for the Cuticura Remedies at once. As it is, I would never think of using any other than Cuticura Soap for my babe. You are at liberty to publish this, it may help some distressed mother as I was helped. Mrs. W. M. Comerer, Burnt Cabins, Pa. Sept. 15, 1908."

ANTI-SMOKING VOTE CENSURED BY MINISTERS

St. Louis Pastors Generally Condemn Action of Presbyterian Assembly.

REGARDED AS A JEST

Preachers Think Matter Is One to Be Decided by Individual Conscience.

St. Louis Presbyterians stand, on the smoking question, just where they did before the Presbyterian General Assembly at Denver legislated, without a penalty clause, against the use of tobacco.

That is to say, those smoke who smoked before, and those who abstained before still abstain. And some of the nonsmokers join the smokers in criticising unfavorably the Assembly's action of last week.

The Denver resolution, in its original form, condemned the use of tobacco by ministers. A lay delegate moved that laymen be included and the assembly so voted. The resolution carried no provision for disciplining those who persist in devotion to the weed.

Well-Known Pastors Smoke.

Some of the best-known pastors of St. Louis Presbyterian churches are occasional, or more than occasional, users of tobacco. One Presbyterian cited this fact Tuesday in expressing his disapproval of the Assembly's action, and mentionel the names of the Rev. Drs. Niccolls, Cannon, McKittrick and Roemer to a Post-Dispatch reporter as showing that some of the best of men do not consider smoking a sin.

Dr. W. J. McKittrick of the First Church declined Tuesday to discuss the assembly's action. Dr. J. L. Roemer of the Tyler Place Church could not be reach. Dr. S. J. Niccolls of the Second Church said:

"I do not believe the resolution will be taken seriously. The use of tobacco is not morally wrong. Anyone whom tobacco is injuring ought to quit it. This is all I have to say."

Calls Action a Mistake.

"I think the assembly made a mistake," said Dr. John F. Cannon of the Grand Avenue Church. "The Southern Presbyterian Church, with which I am affiliated, has never taken any such action. The matter is one of personal liberty, not one for legislation by religious bodies."

Other Presbyterian ministers expressed themselves as follows:

The Rev. Dr. Francis W. Russell, West Church: I regard the use of tobacco as a matter to be determined by the conscience of the individual. But I believe there is a growing sentiment in the church against tobacco. I gave up smoking after entering the ministry, lest it might impair my influence as a minister. It's not easy, for instance, for a Sunday school teacher to persuade a boy to stop smoking cigarettes if the boy can point to the minister and say, "Why, the doctor smokes."

Merely Expression of Opinion.

The Rev. William A. Galt, Lee Avenue Church: The resolution, as I understand it, was merely an expression of opinion. As such, I approve it. The standard is a good one to aim at. Whether the resolution will have any great effect, I am not sure.

The Rev. J. G. Kessler, First German Church: I believe it is best to let tobacco alone. But I do not wish to dictate to another. Let him determine with the aid of his own conscience whether he shall use it or not.

The Rev. E. W. McClusky, Curby Memorial Church: From what I have read about the resolution, I imagine the assembly passed it in joking spirit or to appease some persistent agitator. It will not bind anyone and I hardly think it will influence anyone.

Good Old Summer Time.

From the Hillsboro (Ill.) News.

Summer is arrayed in her wedding garments and her pathway to the nuptial altar is strewn with flowers such as only the Great Master can paint. The wedding march is played by the feathered songsters of the woods whose silver bells never ring a false note or give forth a discordant sound. And amidst the pealing anthems and swelling chorus, she will, in God's good time, be joined in holy wedlock to stalwart, brawny Autumn, and the fruits of the marriage will fill the casks with rich, new wine, the granaries with golden corn, and the orchards will be crowned with a tiara more beautiful than was ever worn by prince or pontiff, and the earth shall be filled with plenty.

Mombasa Is Ancient.

From the Atchison Globe.

You probably think of Mombasa, where Roosevelt landed, as a sort of pioneer outpost on the edge of the world. As a matter of fact, Mombasa was on the map 200 years before Columbus discovered America, and it is a somewhat prosperous city of 27,000 people. It is the terminus of the Uganada Railroad, and has a steel pier and stone wharves. The protective citadel which still stands as a part of the town's fortifications, was started by the Arabs in the seventh century. You may not have heard much of Mombasa, but it isn't because it is a new city, built to make one end of a railroad or a landing for ex-Presidents.

STOCKS RISE AS PARIS NEWS BOOSTS STEEL

U. S. Common Goes Up to 66½ on Report It Is Listed on Bourse.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

NEW YORK, June 1.—The feature of the opening stock market today was the excited buying of United States Steel, due to the news of the movement to list the stock on the Paris bourse. The first sales were 15,000 shares at 65¼ and 65½, compared with the last sale at 64⅜ on Friday last, which was the record price up to that time. The preferred stock also rose a point, as did Colorado Fuel and American Car. Canadian Pacific advanced 2, Wabash preferred 1⅛, and Republic Steel stocks ¾.

Outside of these special instances the movement was narrow and with gains largely predominating over losses.

The general market showed growing sympathy with the advance in United States Steel and began on broader trade. Union Pacific and Reading were features in the railroad list, but e was also a sustaining demand for y other important stocks. United es Steel paused in its rise after it ched 65⅝, but it only receded a trifle. sed Steel Car rose 2 points, Dela & Hudson 1⅜, Union Pacific 2¼, d States Rubber 1¼, and Reading, vay Steel Spring, Western Mary and General Electric advanced 1. burg Coal preferred fell 1¼, and by Mining 1. Paul came up 1⅛, C., C., C. & St. d Corn Products preferred 1¼, and ern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, St. Paul and S. S. Marie, and American Beet Sugar preferred 1. Central Railroad of New Jersey sold at an advance of 8¼. Realizing sales in U. S. Steel forced it back to below 65 and the advance halted. Trading thereupon became very dull.

Bonds were steady.

There was very little change in the character of the market, prices holding pretty firmly around the top level on a smaller volume of business. Atchison, St. Louis Southwestern preferred, Southern Railway preferred and American Malting improved 1; Mackay companies 1¼, and Wisconsin Central 1⅜.

IRST OF JUNE IS DOG DAY IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Catchers Active and Owners Line Up to Register Their Pets.

June day was dog day in East St. Louis. The dog catchers got busy early and the dog savers lined up in solid phalanx to register their pets with City Clerk John F. May and get license tags. During the day 144 licenses were issued, making 792 to date.

"What's your dog's name?" asked the Clerk, with pen poised.

"Who'd-a-thought it," said the negress.

"Dog's name, please?"

"Who'd-a-thought-it."

"Here, now," said May, "tell me this dog's name. There's other folks here with dogs to register.

"Who'd-a-thought-it," repeated the negress. "Dat's mah dog's name, Mistah, jes' Who'd-a-thought-it."

Before the laugh subsided, a white woman appeared with a pretty little pup.

"Name of dog?" queried the clerk.

"Guess," the woman said.

"I've no time to guess," said May. "This is my busy day, madame. Please tell me the dog's name."

"Guess," said the woman, louder than before.

"Now, look here, madame, I told you I wasn't guessing any today."

"My dog's name is Guess," the woman said.

According to the clerk's records, Teddie the favorite dog name in East St. Twenty-three Teddies are registered. There are four Tafts.

East St. Louis News

The selection of a jury was begun Tuesday morning in Judge Millard's division of the East St. Louis City Court in the trial of "Andy" Martin, charged with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Martin, last December, at their home, 719 Summit avenue, East St. Louis. Martin's niece and nephew, the only eyewitnesses to the tragedy, who testified against him at the last trial, are in court ready to again take the witness stand. Martin's attorneys will try to prove insanity as his defense. At the former trial, before Judge Myers, at the last term of the court, the jury was out 74 hours and failed to reach a verdict. Eleven jurors favored conviction, and one juror held out for acquittal.

The Police and Fire Commissioners, appointed Monday by Mayor Cook, and confirmed by the City Council, will meet within a week and organize. After the organization the Police and Fire Department members will hold office on a civil service basis and can be removed only by the Board. The commissioners appointed were W. A. Moody, Dr. M. R. Doyle and John J. Townsend. Mr. Moody is now president of the National Livestock Exchange, East St. Louis Public Library Board and the East St. Louis Board of Education. The salary of the commissioners was fixed at $500 per year. A secretary was authorized at $900 per year, to be appointed by the Board members.

This is the closing week of the Hawthorne School in East Lansdowne. The annual picnic will be held Friday at O'Fallon Park, St. Louis. Special cars will leave the school at 8:30 a. m., going to the west end of Eads Bridge, for the accommodation of the pupils, teachers and their friends.

The new East St. Louis park commissioners are beginning to produce results in the small parks in the city. Florists and landscape gardeners are remodeling the old City Park, at Sixth street and Trendley avenue, and the park at Eighth street and Bowman avenue. Fancy flower beds and many trees have been placed in the parks, and the old wire and picket fences have been replaced with privet hedge.

WOOL MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Without losing any of its strength, the wool market, says the Textile Manufacturers' Journal, has assumed a quieter tone. Mills that make their own yarns are still eager for suitable wools, and both here and in London have been good buyers, especially for all worsted wools. It is reported that fully 75 per cent of the 23,000 bales purchased for America at the recent London sales were for mill account, and that the bidding of the American manufacturers' agents was the leading factor in bringing about the substantial advance in prices realized.

350 FLEE FROM A SCHOOL FIRE

Detroit Pupils Go Down Stairs and Escape Without Injury.

DETROIT, Mich, June 1.—All the pupils of St. Cassimir's Parochial School, Twenty-third and Myrtle streets, escaped in safety today when fire broke out on the second floor of the school. About 350 of the 900 pupils were in the building and all rushed down the stairs and fire escapes without injury.

AD MEN'S CONVENTION SLOGAN, "I'LL BE THERE; WILL YOU?"

Fifth Annual Meeting in Louisville Aug. 25-27, Will Strive for Practical Results.

"I'll be there; will you?" is the slogan for the fifth annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, which will be held in Louisville, Ky., Aug. 25, 26 and 27.

It originated in the Louisville Ad Club a year ago as a catch phrase for boosting what was termed "Greater Louisville Day," which was celebrated July 22. It was immediately adopted by the delegation that was sent by the Louisville club to Kansas City last August, where it was seen and heard on every hand, having much to do with capturing the convention for Louisville this year.

The Louisville convention committee and the officials of the national body are determined to make the coming convention notable for practical results—memorable for bringing into closer relationship the buyer, seller and writer of advertising, where every phase of the subject may be discussed by expert authorities.

Col. R. S. Brown, who heads the Louisville committee, invites correspondence from everyone desiring to attend the convention.

WORKHOUSE SENTENCE USED AS CURE FOR PRACTICAL JOKERS

Harry Simpson and Edward Scovell will get a taste of life in the Workhouse, to which they were sentenced for six months by Judge Shields Tuesday to cure them of pranks bordering on highway robbery. But on the appeal of Mrs. Mary Gullick, the mother of Harry Simpson, he dated the term of their imprisonment back to May 1, when they were put in jail, and they probably will be paroled after they have had time to realize that practical jokes are unprofitable.

April 28 they took a fountain pen away from John Berry in a Market street nickelodeon. They ran and Berry pursued them into an alley, and while he was trying to recover the pen they took his watch.

They pleaded guilty, and after sentence had been passed Mrs. Gullick rose and pleaded for mercy. She told Judge Shields that the "robbery" was only a prank on the part of her son and Scovell.

FINANCIAL ITEMS

Most favorable weather at Chicago improves general business conditions, and buyers show a greater disposition to contract for future requirements. Retail trade is broadening. Cincinnati reports an increased demand in most lines, with a steady movement of staple merchandise, boots and shoes being practically the only division in which quietness is conspicuous.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Dun's Review says: "Bank clearings dwindled slightly this week, and for the fourth week of the month are scarcely up to the average of the earlier weeks, total exchanges for all leading cities in the United States being $2,521,475,579, 12.3 per cent larger than in the corresponding week of last year. There is also a very small increase over 1906, if allowance is made for the fact that the comparison is with only five days in the week that year. For the month to date bank clearings are one-fifth larger than a year ago and slightly under 1 per cent larger than in May, 1906, when trade was very active. As noted above the increase in the comparison with the report three years ago shown in the earlier returns is hardly maintained in the last week of the month. Average daily bank exchanges for the year to date are compared below for three years:

May	$471,847,000	$392,545,000	$467,634,000
April	485,455,000	348,087,000	474,884,000
1st quar.	460,628,000	355,645,000	515,398,000

Retail merchants at Cleveland receive larger orders and factories are increasing their capacity. Advance sales of general merchandise at St. Paul make a very good showing, but current retail business has been retarded by unfavorable weather. Encouraging advices are received from Minneapolis, favorable conditions stimulating a large distribution of seasonable goods, all leading merchants reporting an active demand. Jobbers of wearing apparel receive a good volume of reorders and sales for fall shipments are considerably larger than last year.

BOND MARKET

The new securities actually sold by the railroad, industrial and public service corporations during May are approximately $119,000,000, as against a total of about $135,000,000 in April, and about $70,000,000 in March. The total for the five months since Jan. 1 is now in the neighborhood of $635,000,000, so that it may be conservatively estimated that the output for the full year will run close to $1,500,000,000.

While the May output has fallen about $16,000,000 short of the output in April, it may be said that the conditions under which the more recent issues of new securities, bonds, stock and short term notes, have been handled, have on the whole been quite as satisfactory as at any previous time this year. One of the best illustrations of the readiness with which good bonds can be distributed under market conditions such as those which are now prevailing, that has been given this year has been within the last week in connection with the Armour financing, the largest and most important of the month.

One of the features of the May financing has been the sale of a larger amount of equipment trust obligations, the principal issues of which were $8,100,000 by the Pennsylvania Railroad, $2,500,000 by the Canadian Northern, $725,000 by the Minneapolis & St. Louis and $340,000 by the St. Louis Southwestern. Most of these issues were placed privately with institutions without the necessity of a public offering.

RAILROAD NEWS AND GOSSIP

All railroads in the United States reporting for the three weeks of May show total gross earnings of $17,672,489, a gain of 14.9 per cent over last year and a loss of 11.6 per cent compared with the corresponding period in 1907. In the following table is given earnings of United States roads reporting for the three weeks of May, and the same roads for a like period in April; also the more complete reports for April and the two preceding months:

	Gross earnings. 1909.			Per cent.
May, 3 w'ks	$17,672,489	Gain	$2,211,137	14.9
April, 3 w'ks	17,801,956	Gain	2,052,294	14.0
April	72,248,640	Gain	7,041,072	10.8
March	78,684,115	Gain	9,300,770	13.5
February	74,066,987	Gain	5,285,124	7.7

A number of additional roads are included in the classified statement for April, and total gross earnings now are $72,248,640, a gain of 10.8 per cent. compared with April last year, but a loss of 11.1 per cent compared with April two years ago, when railroad traffic was very heavy. Among the important systems included this week are the Erie, Jersey Central, Reading, Lehigh Valley and Atchison, which show good gains over a year ago, but both the Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley report small loss. The statement is printed below:

April.	Gross earnings. 1909.			Per cent.
Tr'k Eastern	$9,775,390	Gain	$1,110,872	12.8

NEW YORK, June 1.—The Public Service Commission, Second District, State of New York, which requires the railroad companies operating within the State to furnish detailed information relative to detentions of trains, has issued its report for March, 1909, and the Erie Railroad leads all other lines for punctuality with a percentage of 96. The company operated 7393 trains, of which 327 were late at terminals, giving the average minutes late per train run of nineteen-tenths of a minute. In addition to this record, the company's own statistics show that within the last four and one-half years the company has operated 475,000 passenger trains without a single fatality to a passenger, a record that probably has never been equaled by a line of similar size. The Erie carries an average of 25,000,000 people a year.

LARGE DEAL IN WASHINGTON AVENUE PROPERTY RECORDED

Chapman Estate Sells Six-Story Block to Simon Van Raalte for $125,000.

Deeds were filed Tuesday, transferring 813 Washington avenue, a six-story building, 29x130 feet, from the Chapman estate to Simon Van Raalte for $125,000.

It is considered one of the most advantageous purchases of the year. Mr. Van Raalte stated that he has already declined a profit of $10,000 for the purchase.

As several big retail concerns are figuring on quarters on the thoroughfare west of Eighth street, the westward boundary of retail Washington avenue, the future of this block is decidedly promising.

The Holbrook-Blackwelder company handled the deal.

The legitimate PAID circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its suburbs is greater than that of ALL other English Dailies COMBINED.

Cattle	5,000	15,000	3,200
Hogs	11,000	12,800	14,100

Estimated receipts of 5000 cattle were about evenly divided between the native and quarantine departments today. The market on she stuff again presented a dull, weak complexion, but on other classes of native cattle values ruled practically steady. Around a third of the offerings available in the native division were steers including some desirable grades. The best steers topped at $7; heifers at $6.35; cows at $5.25, bulls at $5 and calves at $7.

Packers were slow to enter the market and tried hard to purchase their hogs at steady prices and finally succeeded in doing so. Best packers sold at $7.15@7.30, while the fair mixed grades sold at $7@7.10. Best lights sold at $6.60@7.10, and best pigs at $6@6.50, while a fair grade of pigs and lights sold at $5@5.75.

HORSES AND MULES—A short session was held in the auction ring this forenoon, but the bulk of the supply of horses was carried over for tomorrow's auction. The market was slow, with little spirit featuring the trade.

Mule receipts were light and business ruled on a narrow basis. Offerings wer moved satisfactorily at the commission barn.

LARGELY HIGHER PRICES, BUT DULL MARKET ON WHEAT

Pronounced Paucity of Offerings Promotes Extended Upward Movement.

A pronounced lack of offerings was about the only feature of the very dull local wheat market Tuesday. Trading was small and unimportant and conditions in the pit were of the quiet, listless, draggy sort. There was no wheat on sale, however, and prices, after steadily climbing early in the day, rested dull at liberal advances. The close was ⅝c to 1⅞c higher for the day.

The Liverpool exchange was closed today, but Continental markets were strong, and the good gains scored at Berlin and Buenos Ayres, together with a bullish crop report from Hungary, tended to discount the rather depressing statistics. World's shipments were much larger than expected, showing a sharp increase over those of the previous week and last year, and there was a quite liberal piling up of ocean passage supplies. The opening, however, was firm on the higher cables, the big fire in Frisco, which is said to have destroyed a large amount of grain that was ready for shipment, also figuring as an important factor. The market opened firm and higher and from the start prices ranged steadily upward.

While the weather throughout the wheat regions, both of the winter and spring territories, continues generally favorable, there were many damage reports. Inglis sent in advices of a very unfavorable nature and the official Oklahoma estimate was a decidedly bullish document. Of course, there were claims that the crop still promises to be a good one and this really seems the rational view, but the shorts seemed anxious and inclined to cover on the crop complaints. This frame of mind among the operators who have wheat sold was encouraged by the extremely scanty offerings in the pit. Prices were pushed up without interruption and the floating supply in the pit did not increase on the bulge. Trading did not broaden in value to any appreciable extent and aside from the practically unopposed advance, the market presented an uninteresting appearance, but toward noon prices rested at liberally higher levels.

July wheat opened ½c higher at $1.13⅝, was bid up to $1.15¼, sagged to $1.14⅞ and advanced to $1.15⅝. September wheat opened ⅝c higher at $1.08 and was bid up to $1.08⅝@1.08¾. December wheat opened unchanged at $1.07, advanced to $1.08 and sagged to $1.07⅝.

GETS DIVORCE AND ALIMONY DAUGHTER OF SUFFRAGETTE

Man Says Mother-in-Law Started Trouble by Objecting to His Pipe.

Judge Kinsey in the Circuit Court Tuesday granted a divorce to Mrs. Frieda Werth Tarrant from William P. Tarrant, and awarded to her the custody of their children, William, aged 4 years, and Adelaide, 2 years old, and $50 a month alimony.

Mrs. Tarrant is the daughter of Mrs. Louise L. Werth, who is prominent in the suffrage movement, with whom she lives at 4021 West Belle place.

The case was tried a month ago and taken under advisement by Judge Kinsey. In her petition for divorce, Mrs. Tarrant charged that her husband drank to excess and did not properly support his family.

Tarrant resisted the suit and blamed his mother-in-law for his troubles, which she started, he said, by her objections to his favorite briar pipe.

Mrs. Werth denied that she had anything whatever to do with the trouble between Tarrant and his wife.

MRS. LILLIE GABLER TELLS OF ARREST AT HER HOME

She Declares Haggertys and Ott Uninvited, Made So Much Noise She Called in Policeman.

Mrs. Lillie Gabler of 1833 Garrison avenue has taken exception to the published report of a fight that occurred in her home early Saturday, when Policeman Harrington arrested James and William Haggerty and Fred Ott. Mrs. Gabler says no riot call was sent to the police, but that Harrington was called in to quell the disturbance.

Mrs. Gabler says her husband is Michael James Gabler, and is not known as "Mike Wheeler," as stated to the police by the Haggertys and Ott.

The Haggertys had called her house the "Baseball Players' Rest." Mrs. Gabler says that her house is a "rest" for no one except her friends and those of her husband. Bailey, the Browns' pitcher, was not in the house at the time of the fight, when the Haggertys, it is alleged, tried to throw her husband downstairs, but he had been there shortly before the trouble occurred, according to Mrs. Gabler.

Other ballplayers who visited the house are Criss, Hartzell and Graham. They were introduced to the family by a Mr. Douglas, a bartender at North Market and Coleman streets.

Mrs. Gabler's daughter, Helen, says that while there was beer at the house the evening of the disturbance there was not as much as a keg. She says the Haggertys came to the house without invitation and they made so much noise that she ordered them out and had them arrested. The Haggertys and Ott were fined $100 each in the Dayton Street Police Court.

GERMANY WOULD INFLUENCE TARIFF ASSERT SENATORS

Disagreeable Impression Given by Charges as to Wage Information.

SAVAGE ATTACKS MADE

Reichstag Likely to Take Up Criticisms of Government for Giving Data.

BERLIN, June 1.—The charges made in Washington by various American senators that the German Government was endeavoring to influence tariff legislation in the United States by supplying official information regarding wages which, upon examination, proved them to be much higher than the wages attributed to German manufacturers in the hearings before the Ways and Means Committee of the House, has caused a disagreeable impression in governmental offices here.

This is especially the case in the ministry of the interior and foreign office, where the information in queston was prepared in reply to a request sent in by the State Department.

The German Government has been subjected during the last two months to attacks by German trade journals for having supplied America with German trade secrets. This knowledge of German wages, it is alleged, made it possible to adjust the new tariff to a level where German goods could not be exported to the United States. The abstract of the Foreign Office's communication through Ambassador Hill to the State Department appeared in these dispatches March 29 and was later reproduced in the German newspapers.

Savage Attacks.

It brought savage attacks on the Government for yielding to the "impudent demands of the Yankees" for official reports on wages, thus arming Germany's competitors with vital information.

The State Department, in formulating its request sent through Ambassador Hill, is understood to have emphasized the point that Germany's advantage lay in supplying trustworthy information with regard to wages, so that the United States could frame its tariff schedules equitably. Otherwise, it was argued, Germany could not complain if erroneous information was used as a basis.

This request was received Dec. 10 and was made the subject of a communication to the Federated States of Germany, each of which ultimately obtained the information desired from the official chambers of commerce. The mass of reports was first collected in the Ministry of the Interior and then in the trade division of the foreign office.

Surprised at Delay.

It was transmitted about March 27 and arrived at Washington about April 8, being sent in duplicate both through Ambassador Hill and Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador at Washington. Some surprise is expressed here that for two months the material apparently did not reach the American Congress, or if it did reach either house it must have been pigeonholed.

German officials have been enduring attacks at home, but they are amazed at the accusation from America that they acted strangely in complying with the request of the American Government. The matter is likely to come up in the Reichstag.

ELLERY BAND AT COLISEUM WINS POPULAR FAVOR

Wednesday Evening Is "Business Men's League Night"—"Ad Men" Tonight.

This evening will be "Ad Men's Night" at the Coliseum Garden, the St. Louis Advertising Men's League attending the Ellery Band concert in a body. Special encores of popular and patriotic music have been arranged, and, where there are any choruses, the "Adders" will be invited to join in the singing.

Wednesday evening will be "Business Men's League Night," for which, also, a special program has been arranged, and it is urged by the league that all its members and their families be present to show their appreciation of the good work for the cause of music being done by Channing Ellery and his excellent band. Requests for special musical numbers will be granted by Mr. Ellery if the suggestions reach him by Wednesday morning.

The Ellery Band is one of the best in this country, and is deservedly winning local favor. The general admission charge for the Coliseum concerts is very low, and the great hall is equipped most comfortably for family parties in the evening, with tables and the service of refreshments. There is a steady increase in the size of the audiences, and a committee from one of the leading musical organizations is now also arranging for a special night for its organization.

Boxes for the Business Men's League night may be obtained by telephoning to the Coliseum office or on Wednesday evening at the door.

CHICAGO BALL MAGNATE SUED FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Charles H. Thomas Will Start Action Against Secretary of Chicago Cubs.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Mrs. Charles H. Thomas, wife of the secretary of the Cubs, world champion ball team, says she will file suit for divorce today, and incidentally tells an extraordinary story of incidents leading up to her action.

"Well, I had my suspicions," she said, "and so early in the week I announced my intention of going to Milwaukee. I didn't go to Milwaukee, but I had a telegram sent to Mr. Thomas from Milwaukee informing him that I would not be home until Sunday night.

"A little before 4 o'clock Sunday morning I, with two friends and a chauffeur, drove to our residence in Ravenswood. There we all sat down on the grass and removed our shoes, and finding the front door open—as we had learned before it would be—we entered. While we were getting in, the chauffeur had gone to a drug store to call up Mr. Thomas and to tell him that the Cubs' park was burning up.

"In the meantime we all hid in tho bathroom and when the telephone bell rang watched a woman go to answer it in her sleeping robe. We heard her call Mr. Thomas and then we jumped out of the bathroom and confronted them. I told my friends I wished them to witness what I had found, and then we left the house, replaced our shoes, jumped into the machine and left. There was no scene at all. We found what we expected to find. That was all."

"SWEET COUNTRY GIRL" ROBS KIND MAN WHO GAVE HER ROOM

She Leaves Note Saying She Hated to Do It, but She "Guessed She Must."

CHICAGO, June 1.—"Dear Mr. Patterson—I hate to do this, but I guess I must. You were good and kind to me. I hope you will not miss the money much.

"SWEET COUNTRY GIRL."

This is the note John Patterson found last night when he returned to his room in Erie street, which he had given up to a "friendless, hungry and penniless" young woman. He also found that $65 was gone from his dresser, and that his landlady, who was robbeed of $200 and various articles, wanted to throw him into the street.

Patterson found the young woman weeping on a doorstep near his home Sunday afternoon. She told him she had been in Chicago only a few days and that she was homeless. He purchased a dinner for her and then allowed her to use his room while he went to a hotel.

"She had freckles and had the appearance of a country girl," said Patterson. "I never was so surprised in all my life."

A PASTOR'S TESTIMONY

There is no other way to treat the nerves than through the blood. It follows that when the blood becomes thin and deficient in necessary nerve-building material the nerves are starved and pain and breakdown results. It follows also that a tonic for the blood, like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, that supplies it with the necessary elements will nourish and tone up the nerves and, the cause being removed, nature does the rest and the health of the nerves is restored.

The Rev. F. B. Cunz, pastor of the German Evangelical Church at Fulton, Mo., whose address is No. 217 Second street, Fulton, says:

"My illness dates from the Johnstown flood in 1889. I was Professor of German in the high school and had a charge at Morrellville at the time. As a result of those days of anguish, horror and exposure, I suffered from nervous prostration for fifteen years. My general health was broken down and I was very nervous and excitable. At first I tried to forget my anguish, but could not. Finally my nervous system was overtaxed until I suffered complete collapse. When I was finally able to be around, I began lecturing about the flood. Many a time when my audience was in tears as I described the terrible catastrophe, I would be so affected that I thought I would have to give up. I was constantly under a great mental strain.

"I took treatment with many different doctors, but I cannot say that they helped me. I also sought relief in numerous blood-purifiers and nerve tonics, but nothing helped me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I derived remarkable benefit from them and have since been in good health. I can eat and sleep well, my nerves are strong and I feel much better in every way. I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all nervous sufferers."

If you are suffering from any nervous trouble, further proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have accomplished in similar cases will be sent free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

ARMED STRIKERS SEIZE TON OF DYNAMITE IN LUMBER CAMP

SISSON, Cal., June 1.—Armed with knives and rifles, a party of striking lumbermen at McCloud, 14 miles east of here, drove the guards away from the powder house of the McCloud River Lumber Co. last night and is now in possession of a ton or more of dynamite, according to telephone advices received here.

Shortly after the message was received communication with McCloud was interrupted. Sheriff Howard is at McCloud with forty or fifty deputies, but 600 armed strikers are opposed to him and have the big supply of dynamite in their possession.

Two hundred strikers went yesterday to the logging camps in the hills 40 miles east of McCloud. All carried weapons and they forced every man at work in the camps to lay down his tools.

OPEN CLASH FEARED BETWEEN AMERICANS AND PORTO RICANS

Congress Depended on to Repair Breach Between Executive Council and House.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 26.—This island anxiously awaits action by Congress to repair the breach between the Executive Council and the House of Delegates. Commissioner Larrinaga is said to heve affirmed that little is lacking to bring natives and Americans to blows and the local press is doing its best to precipitate the catastrophe.

Credit is due the Americans here for forbearance under most trying circumstances. They are bearing with heroic patience the abuse rained upon them day after day. Americans are assailed and reviled through the press, at public meetings, and in private conversations at clubhouses and restaurants.

The crisis is far more serious that is believed in the United States. There is no doubt that if Porto Rico had topographical conditions like Cuba or San Domingo the torch of revolution would long since have blazed in this island.

The stir caused by the arrest of Joaquin Barreiero, editor of a local paper, for libeling President Taft in an indecent cartoon has not subsided.
